French And Italian Parties May Have Duel—Refuse To Apologize

GENEVA, July 22.—A session of the inter-parliamentary union was thrown into a furore today by a French attack upon Italian Facism which halted the conference and drew a strong reprimand from the secretariat of the League of Nations, in whose buildings the union was meeting.

All Geneva, including delegates to the world disarmament conference, awaited developments apprehensively as the sensational incident assumed great proportions with the refusal of warring French and Italian delegates to retract bitter statements against each other, and with the French and Italian delegations standing firmly behind their deputies.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Here's a new one friends. While Pa Newc was waiting for traffic, yesterday, on the diamond, a man passed driving a car with a large crate tied in the back. Well there was nothing funny in this, but in the crate was a nanny goat and a man sitting beside it.

We have quite a number of electrical storms, in New Castle, but Young Pa Newc never saw one quite as sharp as the one last evening. The resounding claps of thunder were bad enough but the jagged lightning flashes were worse.

Last night's storm amounted to a veritable cloudburst. There seemed to be several storms converging on the city, all of which let go at one time.

Young Pa Newc started to sleep out on the porch last evening but along about midnight, changed his mind and went indoors. He just made it when the storm broke in all its fury.

Lights in homes on the North Hill were out for about fifteen minutes during the storm last night. The street lights, however, kept burning right through.

Employes of the street department will be kept busy for several days cleaning up the debris washed down from the hillsides by last night's cloudburst. They were on the job bright and early this morning in the downtown district.

To enjoy a storm like last night's as thoroughly as you might, a person must be out camping. When the raging windstorm struck the district there were a host of New Castleites at their cottages along the Slippery Rock and Neshannock creeks, but one in particular was

TWO DARING WOMEN BREAK SIEGE OF MINE

(International News Service)

SULLIVAN, Ind., July 22.—Largely because of the courage of two women the siege of the Hoosier coal mine was being lifted today.

The two women—Mrs. Irvin Coffey, 60, and her daughter-in-law Mrs. Emil Coffey, 20—braved an angry army of 3,500 unionists to bring food and water to the famished and thirsty handful of 27 men, two woman and a child, held prisoners in the open coal pit since Wednesday morning.

Returning from their errand of mercy, the two women brought out two of the besieged workers for a conference with representatives of the union miners and Governor Harry G. Leslie, who had hastened here from the state capitol at Indianapolis to intercede in the emergency.

The conference lasted through the night in a garage here and early today Gov. Leslie announced that a truce had been reached.

Accompanied by Adjutant General Paul E. Tombaugh of the Indiana National Guard and Sheriff Harry Williams, the two women drove through the camp of the union besiegers to the mine. The younger Mrs. Coffey carried her baby in her arms. The automobile contained jugs of water and parcels of food.

The two women had ignored the governor's warning of the risk involved in their expedition to the mine.

"My son is there," the elder Mrs. Coffey had said.

"And he's my husband—the father of my baby," said the young woman.

Four-System Rail Merger Is Approved

Plans Submitted By Lines Last Winter Are Modified In Many Details

B. AND O. WILL KEEP B. R. AND P. SYSTEM

New Castle Junction To Become Important Part Of New System

Permission to consolidate into four great systems was given the leading railroads in the eastern part of the country under a decision handed down by the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington late yesterday.

The commission modified its own consolidation plan of 1929 and broke up the Wabash-Seaboard system; created a new independent system centered around the Delaware and Hudson; and barred the Pennsylvania railroad from entering New England which they had been attempting to do by absorbing the New York, New Haven, and Hartford and Boston and Maine, through stock purchase.

Four Systems

The various smaller roads in the east are now grouped into four systems which include the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate.

No changes were made in the local district, where the Baltimore and Ohio railroad had already taken over the B. R. and P. railroad and is now operating it as a part of its big system. Nor were any changes made which would alter the plans of the B. and O. in opening a route from Chicago to New York, using the B. R. and P., Buffalo and Susquehanna, and Philadelphia and Reading, giving them the shortest route between Chicago and New York.

Of Importance Here

New Castle Junction will become one of the most important railway centers in the country as a result of this big rail merger, as it is known that the Baltimore and Ohio com-

Ten Per Cent Cut For Cost Of Post Office

TOTAL FOR PROJECT HERE NOW $472,500

Bill Affects All Post Office Construction Not Yet Contracted

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22—The limit of cost of New Castle's new post office has been slashed ten per cent under a decision by the Treasury Department based upon the federal economy bill enacted last session.

In authorizing the construction of a building at New Castle, Congress established $525,000 as the limit of cost for the entire project, including the purchase of site and actual construction. The economy bill, however, authorized the Treasury to reduce by ten per cent the limit of cost of all buildings authorized but not yet under contract, and that Department has decided that it will take advantage of this legislation.

$472,500 For Project

This means that instead of spending $525,000 on the New Castle project, the Treasury will spend only $472,500, a reduction of $52,500. And since the site has already been purchased, the entire cut of $52,500 in the appropriation will have to be pured from the cost of the building alone.

The same situation prevails at Ellwood City. The limit of cost of the Ellwood building was set by Congress at $135,000. Under the economy bill the Treasury has reduced this by ten per cent or $13,500, to $121,500. And at Ellwood, as at New

Two Week's Training Schedule Ends At Mt. Gretna Today—Entrain Tonight

ARE EXPECTED HOME SHORTLY BEFORE NOON

Bronzed by two weeks of life in the open, Troop F, 103rd Cavalry, wound up their schedule of training at Mt. Gretna today, and after packing their equipment and clothing this afternoon, will entrain at 9:30 tonight for the long trip back home.

They will get back home tomorrow morning at 11:01, D. S. T. coming in on Train 415 over the Pennsylvania, which is scheduled to get here at that hour.

There will likely be a big delegation at the station to greet the men on their return, as they were given a rousing sendoff when they left here just two weeks ago.

The last week in camp was a most strenuous one, the schedule calling for battle practice in the mountains surrounding Indiantown Gap, where the training camp will be established in the next few years.

In Fine Shape.

The men and horses were on the go all day long, and covered a hundred miles in the three-day tactical problem which took them over mountain roads and wild country.

The men have come through the two week training period in excellent condition, according to the latest word sent out by Troop Clerk, Corp. Forest L. Florida, not a casualty of any kind being recorded, which is a remarkable record.

The troop left here with a full complement of men and have had several unusual distinctions in camp this year, their horses being among the best mounts sent to camp.

The mounts will be left at Mt. Gretna for another two-week period, and will be used by the 104th Cavalry which takes up its tour of duty in camp tomorrow as the 103rd moves out.

Burden Of State Relief On House

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 22.—The major portion of the burden to provide relief for the jobless was back on the shoulders of the house today.

When the assembly reconvenes Monday night for its fifth week, the lower branch will be asked to give the answer which ultimately may bear the fruits and product of the special session.

The senate clearly stated its attitude yesterday, reporting the economy program and bills which showed an inclination favorable to enactment of the 14-point program. While there was little doubt that the house would concur in the somewhat less rigid economy schedule, its treatment of the "harmony" program remains uncertain.

A total of $3,337,834 was clipped from the slash figures of the lower branch, which asked for expenditure cuts of $22,275,000. The senate's action reduced total economies to $18,884,997. The appropriations committee, nevertheless, was not hesitant in stating its belief that the cuts were still too high to be acceptable to the governor.

But Gov. Gifford Pinchot withheld comment. While the major de-

Lightning Hits Gilliland Home

Considerable damage was done to the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Gilliland of 201 Leasure avenue Thursday night during the severe electrical storm. About 30 slates were knocked from the roof, some cornice work torn off and the water pouring through the holes opened, ruined plaster and paper in several rooms.

When the lightning struck, Mrs. Gilliland was shutting some windows and doors. The crash sounded as though all the dishes in the house had tumbled onto the floor, according to Mr. Gilliland, and he feared that his wife had been struck. The damage will amount to approximately $150.

Corn Fields Suffer From Heavy Storm

Farmers report considerable damage to crops in the rural sections by last night's storm. Corn fields were hardest hit. In some fields the corn stalks were blown down. In others they were washed out, this was particularly true of fields located on hillsides.

The hot weather and recent rains have been very favorable for corn. Many fields are in tassle, and roasting ears are only a few days off.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 22.—Mussolini has got the right idea. When a cabinet officer resigns, he fills the post himself. When the cabinet holds a meeting, Mussolini just talks to himself under an assumed name.

See they are sending the bonus boys home at just what it actually costs, but they give the congressmen 10 cents a mile to get rid of them.

Mr. Hoover is not to "open the games here." Which means his political advisers have assured him that the state is "safe." Well, he will not only miss some votes, but will miss some awful good running and jumping. Maybe he has seen enough of that in Washington.

LAKE CITY, Minn., July 22.—The mysterious death of three young women along the wooded banks of the Zumbro river within the last 24 hours today struck terror to the heart of this community.

The third victim, whom authorities believe may have been a co-ed at the University of Minnesota, was found shot through the heart in a parked automobile this morning. One of her hands clutched a beer bottle. A revolver was found near the body.

Although identification of the girl was incomplete, police said the Minnesota license on the car had been issued to Miss Agnes Stevens, a resident of Sanford Hall on the University campus, which is about 30 miles from here. Miss Stevens registered at the university as the daughter of Charles Stevens of Boston.

When the temperature seems to climb and climb, and you'd like to sleep in a tub, or you'd like to be where it's cool to sleep, to rest and to eat your grub. "Peck's Bad Girl" Enters Films

Dorothy Hale, "Peck's Bad Girl" of Pittsburgh society, has signed a movie contract to play opposite Ronald Coleman. A promising sculptress, Mrs. Hale gained nation-wide publicity when she ran away from society several years ago to become a chorus girl. Reared in a convent, she later studied drama at Carnegie Institute. A chance meeting with Samuel Goldwyn, the producer, on a steamship, brought the film contract.

Burden Of State Relief On House

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 22.—The major portion of the burden to provide relief for the jobless was back on the shoulders of the house today.

When the assembly reconvenes Monday night for its fifth week, the lower branch will be asked to give the answer which ultimately may bear the fruits and product of the special session.

The senate clearly stated its attitude yesterday, reporting the economy program and bills which showed an inclination favorable to enactment of the 14-point program. While there was little doubt that the house would concur in the somewhat less rigid economy schedule, its treatment of the "harmony" program remains uncertain.

A total of $3,337,834 was clipped from the slash figures of the lower branch, which asked for expenditure cuts of $22,275,000. The senate's action reduced total economies to $18,884,997. The appropriations committee, nevertheless, was not hesitant in stating its belief that the cuts were still too high to be acceptable to the governor.

But Gov. Gifford Pinchot withheld comment. While the major de-

Lightning Hits Gilliland Home

Considerable damage was done to the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Gilliland of 201 Leasure avenue Thursday night during the severe electrical storm. About 30 slates were knocked from the roof, some cornice work torn off and the water pouring through the holes opened, ruined plaster and paper in several rooms.

When the lightning struck, Mrs. Gilliland was shutting some windows and doors. The crash sounded as though all the dishes in the house had tumbled onto the floor, according to Mr. Gilliland, and he feared that his wife had been struck. The damage will amount to approximately $150.

Corn Fields Suffer From Heavy Storm

Farmers report considerable damage to crops in the rural sections by last night's storm. Corn fields were hardest hit. In some fields the corn stalks were blown down. In others they were washed out, this was particularly true of fields located on hillsides.

The hot weather and recent rains have been very favorable for corn. Many fields are in tassle, and roasting ears are only a few days off.

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 22.—Mussolini has got the right idea. When a cabinet officer resigns, he fills the post himself. When the cabinet holds a meeting, Mussolini just talks to himself under an assumed name.

See they are sending the bonus boys home at just what it actually costs, but they give the congressmen 10 cents a mile to get rid of them.

Mr. Hoover is not to "open the games here." Which means his political advisers have assured him that the state is "safe." Well, he will not only miss some votes, but will miss some awful good running and jumping. Maybe he has seen enough of that in Washington.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LAKE CITY, Minn., July 22.—The mysterious death of three young women along the wooded banks of the Zumbro river wtihin the last 24 hours today struck terror to the heart of this community.

The third victim, whom authorities believe may have been a co-ed at the University of Minnesota, was found shot through the heart in a parked automobile this morning. One of her hands clutched a beer bottle. A revolver was found near the body.

Although identification of the girl was incomplete, police said the Minnesota license on the car had been issued to Miss Agnes Stevens, a resident of Sanford Hall on the University campus, which is about 30 miles from here. Miss Stevens registered at the university as the daughter of Charles Stevens of Boston.

Other Two Found Dead

The other girls found dead along the tiny Zumbo river were Louise Prigge, 22, a farm girl of near Rochester, and her friend, Francis Polikowski, 21. They were last seen

Four Men Working On Recently Fire Destroyed Beaver County Courthouse Injured

(International News Service)

BEAVER, Pa., July 22.—Hurled 40 feet to the ground, four men were injured today when the scaffold upon which they were working at the Beaver county court house collapsed.

The men, J. Balderson of New Brighton, Tony Signora of Rochester, Al Snyder of Baden and John McCracken of Rochester, were rushed to the Rochester General hospital.

A large stone, which the men were removing from the building, slipped, splintered the scaffold and hurled the men to the ground.

Oh these are nights when the room is warm, and the sheet seems to stick to your knees, and these are nights when you think of nights when you thought that you'd surely freeze. And these are nights for a midnight swim, a necessity and a lark, and these are nights when a fellow's bed would be comfortable in a park. When the temperature seems to climb and climb, and you'd like to sleep in a tub, or you'd like to be where it's cool to sleep, to rest and to eat your grub. For the nights are hot and the sheets are hot, and you're sticky as you can be, oh speed the nights when a fellow can sleep, today it's just ninety three.

OFFICERS' TENT BURNS AT MT. GRETNA

Oil City Men Are Imperilled

Guardsmen Quell Blaze After Discovery By Philadelphian

OFFICERS ASLEEP AS FIRE DEVELOPS

(International News Service)

CAMP O'NEIL, MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 22.—Commissioned officers of the Howitzer company, 112th infantry regiment from Oil City, narrowly escaped serious injury early today when their tent at the Pennsylvania National Guard camp here caught fire as they slept. Six men suffered slight burns.

The soldiers were aroused by Captain Lee M. Bryan, a medical officer of Philadelphia, who saw the tent in flames as he was returning from an officers' dance. He aroused the sleeping soldiers.

Guardsmen Quell Blaze.

Sparks found their way to the company mess hall and flew toward nearby tents and the regimental canteen, but several hundred guardsmen who sprang from their cots prevented the fire from spreading. Tents adjoining the flaming canvas were knocked to the ground.

The six occupants of the tent where the fire started escaped with minor burns. The tent was destroyed.

The fire was said to have started from a cigarette thrown in the dry grass of the tent floor.

A fire at the camp several days ago threatened thousands of dollars in supplies.

We notice that vacation months don't mean that school lawns about the city become hay fields or anything of the kind, for they're kept shorn to perfection. And, too, on the North Hill a dozen or more prominent vacant lots have also been trimmed, which adds plenty to the neighborhood appearance.

Style in bathing suits mean nothing to Young America. Pa Newc observed a lad bathing below the East Washington street bridge over the Neshannock Thursday afternoon who was wearing his sisters' dress as a bathing suit. It served the purpose admirably and none of his companions were guying him about it, either.

Up and down go the city's elevators day after day, but Pa Newc has struck just one building where a passenger count is kept. We've often wondered how many are carried by the combined lifts every day.

There were many downtown store windows being given a bath this morning after the ducking they received last night from the storm. The streets needed to be cleaned too for there was much dirt and fallen twigs laying about.

All the streams about the county are invaded the past week with bathers, wherever there is enough water to cool a person off, there you will find a number of persons taking advantage of it. Pa Newc visited several bathing places Thursday evening and found each place swarming with people combatting the hot weather.

The lightning in last night's electrical storm struck an ornamental tree on the lawn of Dr. J. Farley's home on Kurtz place. The branches of the tree were scattered all over the lawn this morning.

A beautiful bouquet of snap dragons in vivid shades, mixed with large white shasta daisies, holds a prominent place on the counter of The News business office today and is calling forth comments on the beauty of the flowers. This was the gift of Ben Campbell, 29 North Lee avenue.

TEN PER CENT CUT FOR COST OF POST OFFICE

Castle, the entire burden of this slash will be borne directly by the structure itself since the site has already been purchased and paid for.

Some Difficulties

Through enforcing this ten per cent reduction in limits of cost the Treasury is finding itself in difficulties in certain cities where the plans and specifications were prepared before the decrease was ordered. The low bids offered on some of these projects do not fall within the reduced limit of cost and the Treasury is finding it necessary to alter the drawings and specifications.

It is understood that the New Castle architect preparing the New Castle plans has been directed to make drawings with the ten per cent cut in view. The plans for Ellwood, however, are already complete and bids will be called for within a few days.

By HARRY WARD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 22.—After months of hearing, the Interstate Commerce Commission today had decided to modify its original plan and permit eastern railroad executives to set up the four-party system in unifying the railroads in that area. A five-party system had originally been proposed by the commission.

In modifying its consolidation plan the commission excluded New England roads. It also exempted the Delaware & Hudson and certain of its short line connections. These will be regarded for the present as an "independent system".

It also eliminated the Wabash-Seaboard system and allocated the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville equally to the Atlantic coast line and southern systems.

The modified plan leaves unallocated the Seaboard Air Line and a number of short line connections which should go with it. The commission said it would leave them for the present as an independent system.

The four systems will be known as the New York Central with 13,000 miles of line; Baltimore & Ohio, 11,000; Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate, 12,500 miles, and Pennsylvania 16,500 miles.

The next order of business will be the filing and hearing of separate applications for consolidation or acquisition of the various railroads assigned to the various groupings. In each of these cases, it will be necessary for the railroads to show that the acquisitions or consolidations proposed would be in the public interest and that the terms and conditions proposed are just and reasonable.

The commission's decision was written by Chairman Porter and was concurred in wholly by Commissioner Lewis. Commissioners Brainerd, Lee and Mehaffie concurred in part, while Commissioner Eastman issued a strong dissenting opinion, in which he was joined by Commissioner McManamy.

BURDEN OF STATE RELIEF ON HOUSE

partments of government had their cuts tempered by the senate committee, the slash for the governor's office was not disturbed.

Meanwhile, the Talbot $24,000,000 emergency relief bill lies virtually stranded, chiefly because of the fact that thus far no bills have been advanced to furnish moneys which the measure would allocate. Federal aid remains in a stage of anticipation, and the fate of the "Harmony" program is uncertain. The house is to consider the Talbot bill for final action Monday night.

From the savings which now would be effected by governmental economy, $3,479,550 would go toward restoring appropriations to mothers' assistance funds, state-owned and state-aided institutions, abated following enactment of the 1931 Talbot Act.

Another $2,000,000 would apply to restoration of abated appropriations to educational and correctional institutions, while a new appropriation of $2,000,000 for state-aided hospitals is provided.

Of 66 bills reported to the senate yesterday, 35 were for final passage Monday night. The remaining measures were passed on first reading and will get second readinfg Monday.

Heat Wave Broken By Heavy Storms

Regular Cloudburst Deluges City At Midnight Last Night

Intense heat, which has gripped the district for several days, was broken by the heavy electrical storm which swept over the city at midnight, almost an inch and a half of rain being recorded, most of which fell within a period of a half hour.

Prior to the storm last evening there were several thunderstorms which broke over other sections of the county earlier in the evening, one to the north and one to the south. East Brook was deluged late in the afternoon, while early in the evening a heavy storm passed around to the south, the lightning from which could be vividly seen.

The rainfall last night was the heaviest recorded since August 12, 1931, when 2.25 inches fell in 24 hours, the storm that day lasting for a much longer period.

Yesterday's temperature of 96 degrees was the highest of the year.

PROBE MYSTERY IN THREE DEATHS OF YOUNG WOMEN

Tuesday night, when they went on a "date" with two strange men.

While doubting that there was any connection between the death of the Prigge and Polikowski girls and that of the victim found this morning, authorities admitted the possibility that a maniac was at large in this vicinity.

Authorities were convinced the two farm girls had been slain, even though a preliminary examination failed to show cause of death. Miss Prigge's body was found in the water, but there was no water in her lungs. Both bodies were scantily clad.

Search was begun for the men who called for the girl at Miss Prigge's home Tuesday night. An autopsy was to be held today in Rochester.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—After months of hearing, the Interstate Commerce Commission today had decided to modify its original plan and permit eastern railroad executives to set up the four-party system in unifying the railroads in that area. A five-party system had originally been proposed by the commission.

In modifying its consolidation plan the commission excluded New England roads. It also exempted the Delaware & Hudson and certain of its short line connections. These will be regarded for the present as an "independent system".

It also eliminated the Wabash-Seaboard system and allocated the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville equally to the Atlantic coast line and southern systems.

The modified plan leaves unallocated the Seaboard Air Line and a number of short line connections which should go with it. The commission said it would leave them for the present as an independent system.

The four systems will be known as the New York Central with 13,000 miles of line; Baltimore & Ohio, 11,000; Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate, 12,500 miles, and Pennsylvania 16,500 miles.

The next order of business will be the filing and hearing of separate applications for consolidation or acquisition of the various railroads assigned to the various groupings. In each of these cases, it will be necessary for the railroads to show that the acquisitions or consolidations proposed would be in the public interest and that the terms and conditions proposed are just and reasonable.

The commission's decision was written by Chairman Porter and was concurred in wholly by Commissioner Lewis. Commissioners Brainerd, Lee and Mehaffie concurred in part, while Commissioner Eastman issued a strong dissenting opinion, in which he was joined by Commissioner McManamy.

BURDEN OF STATE RELIEF ON HOUSE

partments of government had their cuts tempered by the senate committee, the slash for the governor's office was not disturbed.

Meanwhile, the Talbot $24,000,000 emergency relief bill lies virtually stranded, chiefly because of the fact that thus far no bills have been advanced to furnish moneys which the measure would allocate. Federal aid remains in a stage of anticipation, and the fate of the "Harmony" program is uncertain. The house is to consider the Talbot bill for final action Monday night.

From the savings which now would be effected by governmental economy, $3,479,550 would go toward restoring appropriations to mothers' assistance funds, state-owned and state-aided institutions, abated following enactment of the 1931 Talbot Act.

Another $2,000,000 would apply to restoration of abated appropriations to educational and correctional institutions, while a new appropriation of $2,000,000 for state-aided hospitals is provided.

Of 66 bills reported to the senate yesterday, 35 were for final passage Monday night. The remaining measures were passed on first reading and will get second readinfg Monday.

PROBE MYSTERY IN THREE DEATHS OF YOUNG WOMEN

Tuesday night, when they went on a "date" with two strange men.

While doubting that there was any connection between the death of the Prigge and Polikowski girls and that of the victim found this morning, authorities admitted the possibility that a maniac was at large in this vicinity.

Authorities were convinced the two farm girls had been slain, even though a preliminary examination failed to show cause of death. Miss Prigge's body was found in the water, but there was no water in her lungs. Both bodies were scantily clad.

Search was begun for the men who called for the girl at Miss Prigge's home Tuesday night. An autopsy was to be held today in Rochester.

LIBERTY ENDANGERED

WHILE there is no possibility that the Chapman Bill now before the Pennsylvania Senate can be enacted into law during the present Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, the voters of Pennsylvania can well afford to be on their guard against such a possibility in the next regular session.

The bill would repeal the Uniform Primary practice Act of 1906, an act which was brought into being as the result of years of political corruption, climaxed finally by the Extraordinary Session of 1906. The bill would destroy the present safeguards of elections in Pennsylvania, repeal the qualifications of voters, and plunge the state back into the convention system where bossism would once again reign supreme.

Pennsylvania has been charged with corrupt elections even under the direct primary system under which we operate. Though there be some merit to the charge, the present system would appear lily white compared to the old system where a few bosses gathered around a table in the back room of a hotel, and there enunciated the "voice of the people".

The Chapman Bill will be introduced in the regular session, the sponsor has intimated. It is objectionable legislation, not at all worthy of the splendid district Senator Chapman represents, not at all indicative of the desires of Pennsylvania citizens, a throwback to the days when the welfare of the state was subjugated to the will of the bosses.

Such a bill should be scotched thoroughly and completely. When it makes its appearance in the regular session when such legislation would be possible, it should be buried under an avalanche of public sentiment, and the sponsor made to understand that the primary system, won only at a terrific cost, is not to be surrendered.

NATIONAL EXAMPLE

It would be the height of folly and of doubtful economy for the president, vice president and cabinet members to take a furlough as other federal servants are doing under the economy program, and the constitution and rulings of the supreme court forbid making them take a salary cut during their terms of office. But these excuses will not prove a bar to economy even in such high places.

President Hoover, Vice President Curtis and all cabinet members will voluntarily take pay cuts along with the other government workers, who will take theirs in the form of furloughs except where their constant presence is needed, in which cases pay cuts will be substituted.

For the remainder of his term the president will work for $60,000 a year. Mr. Curtis will take a proportionate cut and members of the cabinet will draw 15 per cent less from the national treasury as compensation for their public service.

The important thing here is not the saving of $40,000 a year of the people's money. It is the examplification of civil service even at personal sacrifice. These men are obedient to the spirit of the economy bill not because they must but because they realize more than anyone else the value of every dollar saved for the taxpayers.

TOMORROW WILL DO!

A professor, crossing the campus in the evening, encountered a student who was walking along in a towering rage, and the professor inquired as to the difficulty. The student replied that he was angry with himself because he wouldn't go home and study.

The incident is typical. It explains the failure of most of the five-year plans, and also the five-minute plans, since genus homo first stood erect and looked around.

We are angry with ourselves because we don't answer our friends' letters, because we don't put water in the battery, because we don't wash the dog, because we don't keep studying our job, because we don't read as much as we should, because we don't exercise as we should, because we eat too much, because we don't keep up with the times, because we don't remember to remember birthdays, because we just keep plugging along and the body and mind revolt against too much efficiency.

Of course, there are those perfect, and we presume happy creatures, who can plot their activities and carry them out to the letter. But most of us are otherwise, and the world would sadly miss us if we were gone. We fritter away more time being vexed with ourselves than we would spend in actually going ahead and doing what we know should be done. Not all of us have the happy disposition about it that was shown by Mr. Smith when he said to Mr. Jones, "I get up at four o'clock every morning and go to bed at eight o'clock." Mr. Jones inquired, "How long has this been going on?" Mr. Smith replied, "Since tomorrow morning."

The annual revolution in Brazil started two weeks later than usual this year. Maybe on account of the depression.

Our idea of nothing to look at is a fat bald man in a tight bathing suit trying to cut cute little capers along the beach.

About Prairie Wives
Do You Agree?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

HERE'S A POEM.

I found it in a magazine and at first I thought it good. That's the trouble with rhyming words and rhythmical lines. They charm you into believing that music is fact. Sometimes it is—most delightful fact—but sometimes it isn't. But here's the poem; it's about

PRAIRIE WOMEN

Stolid the prairie women are,
With rugged hands and backs that bow
In unremitting servitude

Men ever turn to lighter loves,
With slender breasts and unbound hair,
And ever follow where the winds
Are gentler and more fair.

While prairie women home at night,
Weary of treading fields forlorn,
Stare in their mirrors long, and
Hate the tyranny of corn.

Helene Magaret wrote that. I don't know her. Neither do I know anything about prairie life except from books. Perhaps Helene was born and raised on the prairie and left it in haste for the city, and perhaps she knows all about it . . . But I doubt it.

* * *

Helene, I'd like to ask you a few questions. Please take the witness stand.

Miss Magaret, are all "prairie women" stolid? Have all of them "rugged hands"? Are they all the victims of unremitting toil above the churn and plow? Don't they ever sit on the front porch and rock and gossip a bit with neighbor women? Haven't any of them automobiles? Don't they ever get to town? Don't they have mechanical churns and tractors on those prairie farms?

And how about the husbands? Where do they find these lighter loves with the slender breasts and the unbound hair? Do they live on the next quarter section? Why aren't THEIR hands red and rugged? Why don't they beat it for the city and jobs in the chorus? And if they do, do the men follow them there—forgetting the crops and the mortgages and everything?

* * *

And Helene, I can't quite swallow that about the prairie women home at night while the farmers are gallivanting around. How can they be doing that when they have to get up so early in the morning? And do you really think the prairie women "hate the tyranny of corn"?

You do, Miss Magaret, because you've thought about it and you pity prairie women who are stuck in the prairie mud or crumpling in the prairie heat—but don't you think there are SOME prairie wives who don't work so bitterly hard and who are slim and pretty and happily married and SOME prairie husbands who don't turn to lighter loves so easily, but who love their own wives? And don't you think that to some prairie couples the corn is no TYRANNY at all, but something green and lovely and precious, and that such men and wives are just terribly glad to be growing corn?

Helene, don't you think so?

Gosh, I do.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A TRAVELER

Although cats in quantity form part of the life of every waterfront where rodents habitate, they generally steer shy of the steamers and are hardly ever caught aboard any of the transatlantic liners.

Contrary to this rule, there is one black cat which never fails to be aboard the White Star liner Majestic when she sails from port. Members of this crew say that this cat is usually one of the first "passengers" to leave the ship on arriving in port, and is rarely seen again until near sailing time.

Only one trip in the last year has she missed, and this slip-up was occasioned by a trip to the west coast, aboard one of the company's Panama-Pacific liners which docks nearby.

PRETENSE

Very likely the effort you make to please those upon whom you wish to make a good impression is responsible for the many failures you have had, to win success in that direction.

You are always trying to be what you are not.

You feel that your true self known, could not obtain what you wish.

So you assume what you believe to be a winning way, and lose out.

This camouflage is so evident that it fools none.

Your deceitfulness makes people wary of you.

Those to whom you might be pleasing and attractive if you were guided by natural impulse and manners, have no confidence in you.

Those who must use deceit to gain what they want are never classed as dependable persons.

You may be unfortunate in your natural manners.

You may have natural traits that are displeasing to most folk.

Of course you should get such traits under control.

And it is possible to change your manners

But the change must come from the heart, not the outside.

A rush of trade caused a mystery in one of our leading drug stores last week.

A customer sat eating, peacefully, a pineapple sundae. Suddenly bliss appeared upon his face. He asked for a dish of crushed pineapple without any ice cream.

Happily singing, he teetered out. Jovially smiling, he soon returned, bringing two more customers. All ordered dishes of crushed pineapple, without fixings. All repeated the order. All repeated the order again.

The pineapple jar was running low, and when the fourth order was given the mystified soda jerker took a new jar from the pantry to refill the dishes. The pineapple eaters tasted, whereupon, with disappointment upon their faces, they paid the checks and marched out.

The soda jerker was puzzled until he happened, in removing it, to smell the empty jar. The crushed pineapple had fermented, turning to wine.

St. Lawrence Canal Project Has Strong National Backing

Some Eastern Ports Give Evidence Of Critical Attitude, But Indorsement Comes From Many Sections Of Country

Keen appreciation of the benefits to be derived from the proposed St. Lawrence Canal project is indicated in many sections of the country. Water transportation to the sea is desired by states covering a wide area, while the advantages in power production as well as in shipping are acknowledged. Some eastern ports indicate the probability of criticism when the treaty, announced by President Hoover, comes before the Senate. Governor Roosevelt's request for a personal conference, with refusal by the President, is believed by some papers to foreshadow attention to the subject during the campaign.

"The entire Mid-West country, which will benefit most directly from the seaway," states the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, "will justly be gratified that a successful termination of the long years of discussion and study and conference is at hand." The Sentinel believes that "it is safe to assume that in a relatively short time the great enterprise will be on its way to completion." The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION says: "While well aware that Buffalo and New York fear loss of trade, we find it hard to believe that this state will be injured in the long run by placing the vast area tributary to the Great Lakes in direct, deep-water communication with the Atlantic. It is a wonderful thing to bring the ocean 1,000 miles inland." The PROVIDENCE BULLETIN emphasizes the point that "a tremendously important by-product will be hydro-electricity of more than 2,000,000 horsepower that will be developed," and adds that "a saving of nine cents a bushel on the cost of shipping wheat from the West to Europe, and proportionate economies in the shipment of other commodities will, it is claimed, result."

"The sooner the seaway is ready for use, the better it will be for this country, particularly inland America," according to the OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN, while the APPLETON POST-CRESCENT calls the plan "a matter of sensible, practical, even vital public improvement," and the ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS advises that "the cost, although large, would largely be compensated for by the power made available and by the shipping facilities afforded the Mid-West." The ESCANABA DAILY PRESS finds "jubilant public interest," and remarks that "the fact that the difficult task of making a treaty between the two governments has been accomplished may be considered as a battle more than half won."

"Sentiment in the Middle-West and Northwest," states the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, "has been keen for realization of this project as greatly cheapening the cost of transportation of grain to the European market. Opinion on the Atlantic seaboard has been that the benefits of the improvement have been exaggerated. A considerable time must elapse before the matter can be tested by the actual operation of the waterway. But there is no question of its general serviceability as a development of water transportation. And it is a vision notably cherished by a large part of the United States."

"Plenty of time remains for planning celebration of this billion-dollar project," advises the TOLEDO BLADE, stressing the necessity for disposing of many details, and concluding: "In the opinion of the joint board of United States and Canadian engineers, seven to eight years will be required to complete this undertaking—twice as costly as the Panama Canal—after the actual beginning of operations." The SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS predicts "continent-wide approval of the agreement," and adds that "the government should push work on the intercoastal canal of Louisiana and Texas, so that through barge service may be had between Chicago and Corpus Christi"; that "ten years hence commodities may be shipped from the Rio Grande to the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river basin without breaking bulk." The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS explains that "cities bordering on the Great Lakes may send directly to, and receive from Europe, commodities that now must be shifted from water to land carriers." The News says that "equal American-Canadian sharing of electric power resources gets foremost notice in eastern territory."

Caution is urged by several newspapers. The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS suggests that its own city and the Mississippi valley generally "await with anxiety the wording of that part of the treaty relating to the diversion of water from Lake Michigan." Pointing to opposition in Quebec on account of cost and effect on the railroads, the NEW YORK SUN avers: "To these objections another can be added more important than all the others. Nobody has yet been able to figure out how beneficiaries will be able to pay the interest on an investment of more than $800,000,000, to say nothing of providing for amortization and making a profit." The BALTIMORE SUN emphasizes the fact that "the money is to be used primarily to provide oceangoing transportation for a mid-continent region that already has abundant rail, water and motor facilities." The JERSEY CITY JOURNAL, conceding that its own area may be adversely affected as to volume of transportation, continues: "A great issue, which will surely figure in the national politics of the next few years, and may even enter into the current presidential contest, will arise from the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deep waterway scheme: water power, its control, use, sale and distribution. For the project involves the creation of new water power sites, where electricity can be generated in enormous volume."

"The advocates of the shipway," argues the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "went up and down the country giving $252,000,000 as the outside figure. Now it is said that the share to be paid by the United States for the St. Lawrence work will be $339,397,000, nearly as much as the Panama canal cost the United States. The outlay for the isthmian waterway was $368,000,000, which included $50,000,000 paid to the French canal company and the republic of Panama and $20,000,000 for sanitation. The expenditure for interoceanic canal was regarded as enormous, but since the World

A MOTHER IN THE HOSPITAL

Oh lady in the hospital, the doctors say you keep
Forever fretting through the night when you should lie asleep,
They tell me it is rest you need and still you toss about.
"My little boy is three years old and likes to scamper out.
And will they keep an eye on him with so much danger near?
It's that which worries me," said she.
"While I am lying here.

"And will they starch his little shirts and keep him clean and neat?
And will they keep away from him the things he mustn't eat?
The doctors shake their heads at me and tell me I must rest.
But Sunday morning will they think to dress him in his best?
And do they know he mustn't have much sugar on his bread?
It's things like that I fret about while lying here in bed.

"The doctors scold me when they call because I haven't slept.
But have they found the little drawer where all his clothes are kept?
And do they dust and sweep the rooms and shine the glassware, too?
And have they changed the linen on the beds as I would do?"
'Tis well enough for men to say put every fear to rout.
But mothers have so many things at night to think about.

Bible Thought For Today

A SURE DWELLING PLACE:—Trust in the Lord and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed.—Psalm 37: 3.

Joe Completes His Attic

Joe and his wife had been talking for a long time about finishing the attic and insulating the roof of their home. Now, more than ever, they needed the additional room. And insulation would make the entire home more comfortable in both winter and summer—and save about 40 per cent of the winter's fuel bill.

Joe had the money in the bank. He wondered a bit what his neighbors, his boss at the office and his business associates would say about him spending the money. But Mr. and Mrs. Joe decided that since they had the money to pay for the job and wanted the extra room, and since materials and labor were so very reasonable, they should go ahead and have it done.

Every single dollar of Joe's remodeling expenditure instantly embarked on a career of usefulness. Let's partially trace just one of them.

First, the dollar was paid to the carpenter for labor; the carpenter paid it to the baker for bread; the baker paid it to the miller for flower; the miller paid it to the farmer for wheat; the farmer, thru the clothing store in his town, paid it back to the clothing factory where Joe is employed.

After the remodeling job was finished, Mr. and Mrs. Joe were complimented by their friends, including the "boss", for having the courage to do the thing they wanted and could afford to do—thus releasing dollars to help bring back good times.

Don't deny yourself and your family the things you want and can afford. Your friends will applaud you for buying them, for they realize such buying stimulates business. In your turn, remember to give your friends and neighbors a pat on the back when they buy what they want and can pay for. Each one active dollar will accomplish wonders. Think what a hundred would do!

LIBERTY ENDANGERED

WHILE there is no possibility that the Chapman Bill now before the Pennsylvania Senate can be enacted into law during the present Extraordinary Session of the General Assembly, the voters of Pennsylvania can well afford to be on their guard against such a possibility in the next regular session.

The bill would repeal the Uniform Primary practice Act of 1906, an act which was brought into being as the result of years of political corruption, climaxed finally by the Extraordinary Session of 1906. The bill would destroy the present safeguards of elections in Pennsylvania, repeal the qualifications of voters, and plunge the state back into the convention system where bossism would once again reign supreme.

Pennsylvania has been charged with corrupt elections even under the direct primary system under which we operate. Though there be some merit to the charge, the present system would appear lily white compared to the old system where a few bosses gathered around a table in the back room of a hotel, and there enunciated the "voice of the people".

The Chapman Bill will be introduced in the regular session, the sponsor has intimated. It is objectionable legislation, not at all worthy of the splendid district Senator Chapman represents, not at all indicative of the desires of Pennsylvania citizens, a throwback to the days when the welfare of the state was subjugated to the will of the bosses.

Such a bill should be scotched thoroughly and completely. When it makes its appearance in the regular session when such legislation would be possible, it should be buried under an avalanche of public sentiment, and the sponsor made to understand that the primary system, won only at a terrific cost, is not to be surrendered.

NATIONAL EXAMPLE

It would be the height of folly and of doubtful economy for the president, vice president and cabinet members to take a furlough as other federal servants are doing under the economy program, and the constitution and rulings of the supreme court forbid making them take a salary cut during their terms of office. But these excuses will not prove a bar to economy even in such high places.

President Hoover, Vice President Curtis and all cabinet members will voluntarily take pay cuts along with the other government workers, who will take theirs in the form of furloughs except where their constant presence is needed, in which cases pay cuts will be substituted.

For the remainder of his term the president will work for $60,000 a year. Mr. Curtis will take a proportionate cut and members of the cabinet will draw 15 per cent less from the national treasury as compensation for their public service.

The important thing here is not the saving of $40,000 a year of the people's money. It is the examplification of civil service even at personal sacrifice. These men are obedient to the spirit of the economy bill not because they must but because they realize more than anyone else the value of every dollar saved for the taxpayers.

TOMORROW WILL DO!

A professor, crossing the campus in the evening, encountered a student who was walking along in a towering rage, and the professor inquired as to the difficulty. The student replied that he was angry with himself because he wouldn't go home and study.

The incident is typical. It explains the failure of most of the five-year plans, and also the five-minute plans, since genus homo first stood erect and looked around.

We are angry with ourselves because we don't answer our friends' letters, because we don't put water in the battery, because we don't wash the dog, because we don't keep studying our job, because we don't read as much as we should, because we don't exercise as we should, because we eat too much, because we don't keep up with the times, because we don't remember to remember birthdays, because we just keep plugging along and the body and mind revolt against too much efficiency.

Of course, there are those perfect, and we presume happy creatures, who can plot their activities and carry them out to the letter. But most of us are otherwise, and the world would sadly miss us if we were gone. We fritter away more time being vexed with ourselves than we would spend in actually going ahead and doing what we know should be done. Not all of us have the happy disposition about it that was shown by Mr. Smith when he said to Mr. Jones, "I get up at four o'clock every morning and go to bed at eight o'clock." Mr. Jones inquired, "How long has this been going on?" Mr. Smith replied, "Since tomorrow morning."

Criticism of a Poem About Prairie Wives Do You Agree?

HERE'S A POEM.

I found it in a magazine and at first I thought it good. That's the trouble with rhyming words and rhythmical lines. They charm you into believing that music is fact. Sometimes it is—most delightful fact—but sometimes it isn't. But here's the poem: it's about

PRAIRIE WOMEN

Stolid the prairie women are,
With rugged hands and backs that bow

Men ever turn to lighter loves,
With slender breasts and unbound hair,
And ever follow where the winds
Are gentler and more fair.

While prairie women home at night,
Weary of treading fields forlorn,
Stare in their mirrors long, and
Hate the tyranny of corn.

Helene Magaret wrote that. I don't know her. Neither do I know anything about prairie life except from books. Perhaps Helene was born and raised on the prairie and left it in haste for the city, and perhaps she knows all about it . . . But I doubt it.

* * *

Helene, I'd like to ask you a few questions. Please take the witness stand.

Miss Magaret, are all "prairie women" stolid? Have all of them "rugged hands"? Are they all the victims of unremitting toil above the churn and plow? Don't they ever sit on the front porch and rock and gossip a bit with neighbor women? Haven't any of them automobiles? Don't they ever get to town? Don't they have mechanical churns and tractors on those prairie farms?

And how about the husbands? Where do they find these lighter loves with the slender breasts and the unbound hair? Do they live on the next quarter section? Why aren't THEIR hands red and rugged? Why don't they beat it for the city and jobs in the chorus? And if they do, do the men follow them there—forgetting the crops and the mortgages and everything?

* * *

And Helene, I can't quite swallow that about the prairie women home at night while the farmers are gallivanting around. How can they be doing that when they have to get up so early in the morning? And do you really think the prairie women "hate the tyranny of corn"?

You do, Miss Magaret, because you've thought about it and you pity prairie women who are stuck in the prairie mud or crumpling in the prairie heat—but don't you think there are SOME prairie wives who don't work so bitterly hard and who are slim and pretty and happily married and SOME prairie husbands who don't turn to lighter loves so easily, but who love their own wives? And don't you think that to some prairie couples the corn is no TYRANNY at all, but something green and lovely and precious, and that such men and wives are just terribly glad to be growing corn?

Helene, don't you think so?

Gosh, I do.

A TRAVELER

Although cats in quantity form part of the life of every waterfront where rodents habitate, they generally steer shy of the steamers and are hardly ever caught aboard any of the transatlantic liners.

Contrary to this rule, there is one black cat which never fails to be aboard the White Star liner Majestic when she sails from port. Members of this crew say that this cat is usually one of the first "passengers" to leave the ship on arriving in port, and is rarely seen again until near sailing time.

Only one trip in the last year has she missed, and this slip-up was occasioned by a trip to the west coast, aboard one of the company's Panama-Pacific liners which docks nearby.

PRETENSE

Very likely the effort you make to please those upon whom you wish to make a good impression is responsible for the many failures you have had, to win success in that direction.

You are always trying to be what you are not.

You feel that your true self known, could not obtain what you wish.

So you assume what you believe to be a winning way, and lose out.

This camouflage is so evident that it fools none.

Your deceitfulness makes people wary of you.

Those to whom you might be pleasing and attractive if you were guided by natural impulse and manners, have no confidence in you.

Those who must use deceit to gain what they want are never classed as dependable persons.

You may be unfortunate in your natural manners.

You may have natural traits that are displeasing to most folk.

Of course you should get such traits under control.

And it is possible to change your manners

But the change must come from the heart, not the outside.

None are faultless and always exemplary, so don't try to pretend that you are a little angel.

Left alone with the haughty dowager, he surveyed her curiously. At length he spoke: "I wish I could 'a' been at your nose-lifting, I do."

"Eh!" gulped the lady.

"Well,' said the visitor's son, "mamma was talking about you and she said 'That old Zeppelin has her nose up in the air'."

A rush of trade caused a mystery in one of our leading drug stores last week.

A customer sat eating, peacefully, a pineapple sundae. Suddenly bliss appeared upon his face. He asked for a dish of crushed pineapple without any ice cream.

Happily singing, he teetered out. Jovially smiling, he soon returned, bringing two more customers. All ordered dishes of crushed pineapple, without fixings. All repeated the order. All repeated the order again.

The pineapple jar was running low, and when the fourth order was given the mystified soda jerker took a new jar from the pantry to refill the dishes. The pineapple eaters tasted, whereupon, with disappointment upon their faces, they paid the checks and marched out.

The soda jerker was puzzled until he happened, in removing it, to smell the empty jar. The crushed pineapple had fermented, turning to wine.

An American touring Europe was afflicted, like so many of our countrymen, with a severe case of superiority complex. And he did not hesitate to express himself freely—so freely, in fact, that he made himself obnoxious to such of the Europeans with whom he came in contact. He was indifferent to the magnificent cathedrals, the European coffee could not compare with that of Childs', the people he found to be dull—even the mountains of Switzerland did not impress him as being the equal of the Rockies. He reached Naples at a time when Vesuvius was in eruption. It was an awe inspiring sight. "You have nothing like this in America?" asked his Italian host feeling sure that here, at last, was something which the American could not belittle. "Shucks," replied the American with a contemptuous wave of his hand, "we've got a Niagara Falls that could put that out in two minutes."

St. Lawrence Canal Project Has Strong National Backing

Some Eastern Ports Give Evidence Of Critical Attitude, But Indorsement Comes From Many Sections Of Country

Keen appreciation of the benefits to be derived from the proposed St. Lawrence Canal project is indicated in many sections of the country. Water transportation to the sea is desired by states covering a wide area, while the advantages in power production as well as in shipping are acknowledged. Some eastern ports indicate the probability of criticism when the treaty, announced by President Hoover, comes before the Senate. Governor Roosevelt's request for a personal conference, with refusal by the President, is believed by some papers to foreshadow attention to the subject during the campaign.

"The entire Mid-West country, which will benefit most directly from the seaway," states the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, "will justly be gratified that a successful termination of the long years of discussion and study and conference is at hand." The Sentinel believes that "it is safe to assume that in a relatively short time the great enterprise will be on its way to completion." The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION says: "While well aware that Buffalo and New York fear loss of trade, we find it hard to believe that this state will be injured in the long run by placing the vast area tributary to the Great Lakes in direct, deep-water communication with the Atlantic. It is a wonderful thing to bring the ocean 1,000 miles inland." The PROVIDENCE BULLETIN emphasizes the point that "a tremendously important by-product will be hydro-electricity of more than 2,000,000 horsepower that will be developed," and adds that "a saving of nine cents a bushel on the cost of shipping wheat from the West to Europe, and proportionate economies in the shipment of other commodities will, it is claimed, result."

"The sooner the seaway is ready for use, the better it will be for this country, particularly inland America," according to the OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN, while the APPLETON POST-CRESCENT calls the plan "a matter of sensible, practical, even vital public improvement," and the ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS advises that "the cost, although large, would largely be compensated for by the power made available and by the shipping facilities afforded the Mid-West." The ESCANABA DAILY PRESS finds "jubilant public interest," and remarks that "the fact that the difficult task of making a treaty between the two governments has been accomplished may be considered as a battle more than half won."

"Sentiment in the Middle-West and Northwest," states the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, "has been keen for realization of this project as greatly cheapening the cost of transportation of grain to the European market. Opinion on the Atlantic seaboard has been that the benefits of the improvement have been exaggerated. A considerable time must elapse before the matter can be tested by the actual operation of the waterway. But there is no question of its general serviceability as a development of water transportation. And it is a vision notably cherished by a large part of the United States."

"Plenty of time remains for planning celebration of this billion-dollar project," advises the TOLEDO BLADE, stressing the necessity for disposing of many details, and concluding: "In the opinion of the joint board of United States and Canadian engineers, seven to eight years will be required to complete this undertaking—twice as costly as the Panama Canal—after the actual beginning of operations." The SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS predicts "continent-wide approval of the agreement," and adds that "the government should push work on the intercoastal canal of Louisiana and Texas, so that through barge service may be had between Chicago and Corpus Christi"; that "ten years hence commodities may be shipped from the Rio Grande to the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river basin without breaking bulk." The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS explains that "cities bordering on the Great Lakes may send directly to, and receive from Europe, commodities that now must be shifted from water to land carriers." The News says that "equal American-Canadian sharing of electric power resources gets foremost notice in eastern territory."

Caution is urged by several newspapers. The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS suggests that its own city and the Mississippi valley generally "await with anxiety the wording of that part of the treaty relating to the diversion of water from Lake Michigan." Pointing to opposition in Quebec on account of cost and effect on the railroads, the NEW YORK SUN avers: "To these objections another can be added more important than all the others. Nobody has yet been able to figure out how beneficiaries will be able to pay the interest on an investment of more than $800,000,000, to say nothing of providing for amortization and making a profit." The BALTIMORE SUN emphasizes the fact that "the money is to be used primarily to provide oceangoing transportation for a mid-continent region that already has abundant rail, water and motor facilities." The JERSEY CITY JOURNAL, conceding that its own area may be adversely affected as to volume of transportation, continues: "A great issue, which will surely figure in the national politics of the next few years, and may even enter into the current presidential contest, will arise from the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes deep waterway scheme: water power, its control, use, sale and distribution. For the project involves the creation of new water power sites, where electricity can be generated in enormous volume."

"The advocates of the shipway," argues the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "went up and down the country giving $252,000,000 as the outside figure. Now it is said that the share to be paid by the United States for the St. Lawrence work will be $339,397,000, nearly, as much as the Panama canal cost the United States. The outlay for the isthmian waterway was $388,000,000, which included $50,000,000 paid to the French canal company and the republic of Panama and $20,000,000 for sanitation. The expenditure for interoceanic canal was regarded as enormous, but since the World

Oh lady in the hospital, the doctors say you keep
Forever fretting through the night when you should lie asleep.
They tell me it is rest you need and still you toss about.
"My little boy is three years old and likes to scamper out,
And will they keep an eye on him with so much danger near?
It's that which worries me," said she,
"while I am lying here.

"And will they starch his little shirts and keep him clean and neat?
And will they keep away from him the things he mustn't eat?
The doctors shake their heads at me and tell me I must rest.
But Sunday morning will they think to dress him in his best?
And do they know he mustn't have much sugar on his bread?
It's things like that I fret about while lying here in bed.

"The doctors scold me when they call because I haven't slept.
But have they found the little drawer where all his clothes are kept?
And do they dust and sweep the rooms and shine the glassware, too?
And have they changed the linen on the beds as I would do?"
'Tis well enough for men to say put every fear to rout,
But mothers have so many things at night to think about.

Bible Thought For Today

A SURE DWELLING PLACE:—Trust in the Lord and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed.—Psalm 37: 3.

Joe Completes His Attic

Joe and his wife had been talking for a long time about finishing the attic and insulating the roof of their home. Now, more than ever, they needed the additional room. And insulation would make the entire home more comfortable in both winter and summer—and save about 40 per cent of the winter's fuel bill.

Joe had the money in the bank. He wondered a bit what his neighbors, his boss at the office and his business associates would say about him spending the money. But Mr. and Mrs. Joe decided that since they had the money to pay for the job and wanted the extra room, and since materials and labor were so very reasonable, they should go ahead and have it done.

Every single dollar of Joe's remodeling expenditure instantly embarked on a career of usefulness. Let's partially trace just one of them.

First, the dollar was paid to the carpenter for labor; the carpenter paid it to the baker for bread; the baker paid it to the miller for flower; the miller paid it to the farmer for wheat; the farmer, thru the clothing store in his town, paid it back to the clothing factory where Joe is employed.

After the remodeling job was finished, Mr. and Mrs. Joe were complimented by their friends, including the "boss", for having the courage to do the thing they wanted and could afford to do—thus releasing dollars to help bring back good times.

Don't deny yourself and your family the things you want and can afford. Your friends will applaud you for buying them, for they realize such buying stimulates business. In your turn, remember to give your friends and neighbors a pat on the back when they buy what they want and can pay for. Each one active dollar will accomplish wonders. Think what a hundred would do!

Circulation Of Currency Makes Gain

NEW YORK, July 22.—Currency circulation has shown another unseasonal increase, amounting to $21,000,000, the Federal Reserve statements this week reveal. The upturn in currency was regarded as indicating further substantial withdrawals by hoarding depositors, thereby bringing to an end the post-holiday contradition in circulation which was in evidence in the previous week, when a decline of $61,000,000 in currency occurred. The outstanding volume of currency now amounts to $5,735,000,000, or within $40,000,000 of the record high for more than a decade, established two wees ago.

With currency again on the increase the Federal Reserve continued to buy government securities, though in increased volume. The gain in the system's holdings was $15,000,000, as against one of $20,000,000 a week ago. Since the Federal Reserve began its securities buying in the last few days of February it was accumulated $1,095,000,000 worth.

Possibly in connection with the increase in currency circulation, member bank borrowings from the system were up $20,995,000. Bill holdings of the system, on the other hand, declined $9,719,000.

Wrong Man Is Reported Dead Result Of Blast

Man At First Believed Killed In Blast Near Scranton, Is Alive, Relative Is Victim

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., July 22.—One man was killed today another was injured and a third was missing in a mysterious explosion and fire which wrecked a two-story frame dwelling in Arcvhbald Borough. A number of other persons previously reported missing have been accounted for.

The man killed was at first thought to have been August Corseletti, but later he was positively identified as Matthew Tosoni, 48, relative of Corseletti. The latter and most of his family were not at home at the time of the blast.

Almando Corseletti, 19, was badly burned and was removed to a hospital. Police believed Philip Spigarelli, 30, was buried under the ruins of the building. Spigarelli's coat and suitevase were found, but there was no trace of the man.

State police had not determined the cause of the blast which destroyed the house in which two families made their home.

Automobile Is Damaged In Open Manhole Opening

Police Hear Of Two Accidents On Streets Of The City

A tire of his machine and also the rear of his car were damaged.

William Dugan of 607 Croton avenue, reported to the police Thursday at a machine bearing the license No. S928 enroute west on Croton avenue had run into and damaged a car parked near his home, then ran into a telephone pole at Croton avenue and East Brook street, breaking it off, and then going on toward East Brook. The police found that the car was listed in the name of Sadie DeHuff (O'Neil.)

Country Has Opportunity

(Special to The News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Presidential approval of the compromise emergency relief and construction legislation has given to the country its first real opportunity thus far to work itself out of the present depression and should lead to an early and definite swing toward national trade recovery, Henry J. Kaiser of Oakland, Calif., president of the Associated General Contractors of America, declared in a statement here today.

"While the volume of federal construction provided in the bill is disappointing to many who believed that the government must take the lead in providing specific projects to absorb the unemployed so as to recreate purchasing power and revive general business activity, I believe that the approved loan provisions of the relief bill will immediately bring out a surprisingly large volume of long delayed but worthy projects, the launching of which is bound to have a marked stimulus on all lines of trade," Kaiser said.

The statement of the contractors' president was made upon his departure from Washington where he has spent the last three months in advocating before congress and the representative business interests of the country an adequate national construction program as the only method of satisfying the demands of the present economic situation.

Whatever Governor Roosevelt's motives may have been for raising the St. Lawrence waterway issue at this particular juncture, he will not be able to deny that President Hoover has met it astutely and in a manner that confines itself to the intrinsic merits of the situation."

"Would it not have been a good thing," asks the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL, "for President Hoover and his negotiators to have had full information direct from Governor Roosevelt concerning New York state's stupendous interest in the negotiations?" The suggestion that the matter might be made an issue in the campaign is made by the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL with the statement: "In view of Mr. Hoover's long time and favorable interest in the scheme as a federal enterprise, and in view also of Governor Roosevelt's ardent espousal of the rights of New York, the St. Lawrence treaty promises to obtrude itself as an inescapable issue in the national campaign just now beginning."

A similar position is taken by the WALL STREET JOURNAL, while the HARTFORD TIMES declares: "Professing desire to be of assistance, it is difficult to believe Governor Roosevelt was altogether blind to possible advantage to his own campaign by identifying himself with this undertaking, so popular in the middle west. President Hoover, naturally, does not desire to aid in the latter enterprise. His allusion in his refusal to his 10-year advocacy of the plan suggests a purpose not to have the issue taken away from him, a position emphasized by the inference that the governor is welcome to get aboard a train already moving if he wishes."

Circulation Of Currency Makes Gain

NEW YORK, July 22.—Currency circulation has shown another unseasonal increase, amounting to $21,000,000, the Federal Reserve statements this week reveal. The upturn in currency was regarded as indicating further substantial withdrawals by hoarding depositors, thereby bringing to an end the post-holiday contradition in circulation which was in evidence in the previous week, when a decline of $61,000,000 in currency occurred. The outstanding volume of currency now amounts to $5,735,000,000, or within $40,000,000 of the record high for more than a decade, established two wees ago.

With currency again on the increase the Federal Reserve continued to buy government securities, though in increased volume. The gain in the system's holdings was $15,000,000, as against one of $20,000,000 a week ago. Since the Federal Reserve began its securities buying in the last few days of February it was accumulated $1,095,000,000 worth.

Possibly in connection with the increase in currency circulation, member bank borrowings from the system were up $20,995,000. Bill holdings of the system, on the other hand, declined $9,719,000.

State police had not determined the cause of the blast which destroyed the house in which two families made their home.

The police found that the car was listed in the name of Sadie DeHuff (O'Neil.)

Country Has Opportunity

(Special to The News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Presidential approval of the compromise emergency relief and construction legislation has given to the country its first real opportunity thus far to work itself out of the present depression and should lead to an early and definite swing toward national trade recovery, Henry J. Kaiser of Oakland, Calif., president of the Associated General Contractors of America, declared in a statement here today.

"While the volume of federal construction provided in the bill is disappointing to many who believed that the government must take the lead in providing specific projects to absorb the unemployed so as to recreate purchasing power and revive general business activity, I believe that the approved loan provisions of the relief bill will immediately bring out a surprisingly large volume of long delayed but worthy projects, the launching of which is bound to have a marked stimulus on all lines of trade," Kaiser said.

The statement of the contractors' president was made upon his departure from Washington where he has spent the last three months in advocating before congress and the representative business interests of the country an adequate national construction program as the only method of satisfying the demands of the present economic situation.

War such a sum seems of minor proportions."

"In such witching hours as these," thinks the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, taking up the communication between Governor Roosevelt of New York and President Hoover, "any exchanges between the rival candidates for the presidency of the United States are bound to have political significance read into them. Whatever Governor Roosevelt's motives may have been for raising the St. Lawrence waterway issue at this particular juncture, he will not be able to deny that President Hoover has met it astutely and in a manner that confines itself to the intrinsic merits of the situation."

"Would it not have been a good thing," asks the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL, "for President Hoover and his negotiators to have had full information direct from Governor Roosevelt concerning New York state's stupendous interest in the negotiations?" The suggestion that the matter might be made an issue in the campaign is made by the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL with the statement: "In view of Mr. Hoover's long time and favorable interest in the scheme as a federal enterprise, and in view also of Governor Roosevelt's ardent espousal of the rights of New York, the St. Lawrence treaty promises to obtrude itself as an inescapable issue in the national campaign just now beginning."

A similar position is taken by the WALL STREET JOURNAL, while the HARTFORD TIMES declares: "Professing desire to be of assistance, it is difficult to believe Governor Roosevelt was altogether blind to possible advantage to his own campaign by identifying himself with this undertaking, so popular in the middle west. President Hoover, naturally, does not desire to aid in the latter enterprise. His alusion in his refusal to his 10-year advocacy of the plan suggests a purpose not to have the issue taken away from him, a position emphasized by the inference that the governor is welcome to get aboard a train already moving if he wishes."

'Whipping Judge' Explains Why He's For Public Lash

Holmes Jurist Declares Some Violators Must Be "Jolted" Into Respect For Law

MILLERSBURG, O., July 22.—Some persons can be educated into respect for law but others, insists Holmes County's "whipping judge," Robert B. Putnam, must be jolted into it.

And what Judge Putnam inquired today, is wrong with a whip for the jolting?

Just two weeks ago, the Common Pleas Court jurist watched from a window in his office as Sheriff John Stevens horsewhipped James Wynn, 51, and William Wynn, 48, brothers, at Judge Putnam's order.

Since the whipping, the first punishment of the kind meted in Ohio in 50 years, the judge has been the target of a "great amount of comment, ranging from vituperous criticism to highest praise."

Such a widespread misconception of the facts was revealed in the comment that Judge Putnam "deems it proper to make an authoritative statement of the facts," he explained in a statement today.

The Wynn brothers were found guilty of stealing a refrigerator, which they sold for $3. They were suspected, officials said, of numerous other thefts. The judge explained their sentence.

"These men were sentenced under the General Code of Ohio, Sections 13451-8 and 13452-1. They were told that their sentences would be a term in jail or twenty lashes, publicly administered by the sheriff, after which they were to get out of Holmes County and stay out."

They chose to take the twenty lashes and get out."

"Now," continued the judge, "as to the fundamental question involved, whether whipping is ever justifiable, efficacious or expedient as a sentence for violation of law.

"Two schools of thought exist. The old school adheres to the Mosaic doctrine 'an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.'

"The second is what we may call the new school, the 'moderns' or 'the reformers.'

"This school repudiates the Mosaic law. It not only condemns whipping but capital punishment or any other punishment.

"Personally, I belong to the old school."

"Some people can be educated into respect for law, others must be jolted into it. If it takes a jolt, this court is prepared to jolt."

"I believe in doing something to meet the present crisis rather than allow things to drift."

And, the judge concluded with a query, "In proper cases, why not whipping?"

French Deputy Causes Uproar

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

GENEVA, July 22.—A serious international incident occurred at a session of the inter-parliamentary union today when a French deputy launched a bitter attack upon Fascist Italy which halted the conference and threw its delegates into an uproar.

Just as an Italian deputy, Antonio Costamagna, finished a speech on international law in connection with the Fascist regime of Premier Benito Mussolini, a French deputy, Pierre Renaudel, arose and in a rage yelled across the room:

"What do you know about international law? You Fascists do not know the meaning of law or liberty. Down with you assassins!"

At this point Costamagna rushed across the room in an attempt to strike the Frenchman, but others intervened and the session recessed amid great confusion.

Anderson is reported to have been shot by Miss Marie Douglas, 17, when he is said to have refused to leave the Douglas farm, where he had been picking berries.

Timely Reminders Are Given Farmers

Timely reminders are included in this week's bulletin from the school of agriculture, Penn State College, as follows:

Improve Dairy Herd—Low-producing cows, poor feeding practices, and disease are the relentless profit destroyers in dairy herds. A program of elimination of handicaps and improvement in practices often changes a herd from profit eaters to profit makers.

Take Honey Away—Surplus honey, especially comb honey, should be removed from the bees as soon as the sections are entirely sealed. If section honey is left in the hive very long after it is properly sealed, the bees will add considerable propolis to both the wax and the section and thereby lower the grade.

Prevent Weed Growth—Peat moss or buckwheat hulls may be used in the rose garden to assist in controlling weed growth and in retaining the moisture in and about the roots of the plants.

Save Young Pines—Insect pests attack trees as well as farm crops. Watch the tops of small white pines. If the needle begin to wilt on last year's growth, doubtless the white pine weevil is present. Control measures should be practiced. Your county agent will gladly furnish this information.

Plant Late Beans—A planting of bush snap beans now is likely to yield better than those planted early. It also will furnish a supply when the crop probably will be scarce.

Feed Swine Well—Keeping the pigs on full feed will help to fit them for the early fall market when prices run higher than in later months. The shorter feeding period also saves grain which would be eaten to maintain body weight in the longer period.

Give Hens A Chance—Fewer mistakes will be made in culling hens when the flock has been properly fed and the hens given every chance to lay as many eggs as they can.

Seek Cause Of Poisoning Of 400 On Picnic

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 22—Nearly 400 employes and friends of two capital dairy firms today were suffering from ptomaine poisoning acquired at a picnic while health authorities sought to determine the cause for the ailment.

The picnickers were attacked while at Marshall Hall, a Potomac river resort, and were rushed to the capital last night on a river steamer chartered for the picnic. About 20 bonus seekers were also stricken. These men were given an excess supply of deviled egg salad, as the picnickers left the capital early in the day.

Every available ambulance in the city was waiting for the steamer as it docked, and carried the poison victims to every hospital in the city.

Though 150 persons remained in the institutions following first aid, no casualties resulted.

'Whipping Judge' Explains Why He's For Public Lash

Holmes Jurist Declares Some Violators Must Be "Jolted" Into Respect For Law

MILLERSBURG, O., July 22.—Some persons can be educated into respect for law but others, insists Holmes County's "whipping judge," Robert B. Putnam, must be jolted into it.

And what, Judge Putnam inquired today, is wrong with a whip for the jolting?

Just two weeks ago, the Common Pleas Court jurist watched from a window in his office as Sheriff John Stevens horsewhipped James Wynn, 51, and William Wynn, 48, brothers, at Judge Putnam's order.

Since the whipping, the first punishment of the kind meted in Ohio in 50 years, the judge has been the target of a "great amount of comment, rangning from vituperous criticism to highest praise."

Such a widespread misconception of the facts was revealed in the comment that Judge Putnam "deems it proper to make an authoritative statement of the facts," he explained in a statement today.

The Wynn brothers were found guilty of stealing a refrigerator, which they sold for $3. They were suspected, officials said, of numerous other thefts. The judge explained their sentence.

"These men were sentenced under the General Code of Ohio, Sections 13451-8 and 13452-1. They were told that their sentences would be a term in jail or twenty lashes, publicly administered by the sheriff, after which they were to get out of Holmes County and stay out."

They chose to take the twenty lashes and get out."

"Now," continued the judge, "as to the fundamental question involved, whether whipping is ever justifiable, efficacious or expedient as a sentence for violation of law.

"Two schools of thought exist. The old school adheres to the Mosaic doctrine 'an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.'

"The second is what we may call the new school, the 'moderns' or 'the reformers.'

"This school repudiates the Mosaic law. It not only condemns whipping but capital punishment or any other punishment.

"Personally, I belong to the old school."

"Some people can be educated into respect for law, others must be jolted into it. If it takes a jolt, this court is prepared to jolt."

"I believe in doing something to meet the present crisis rather than allow things to drift."

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

GENEVA, July 22.—A serious international incident occurred at a session of the inter-parliamentary union today when a French deputy launched a bitter attack upon Fascist Italy which halted the conference and threw its delegates into an uproar.

Just as an Italian deputy, Antonio Costamagna, finished a speech on International law in connection with the Fascist regime of Premier Benito Mussolini, a French deputy, Pierre Renaudel, arose and in a rage yelled across the room:

"What do you know about international law? You Fascists do not know the meaning of law or liberty. Down with you assassins!"

At this point Costamagna rushed across the room in an attempt to strike the Frenchman, but others intervened and the session recessed amid great confusion.

Timely Reminders Are Given Farmers

Timely reminders are included in this week's bulletin from the school of agriculture, Penn State College, as follows:

Improve Dairy Herd—Low-producing cows, poor feeding practices, and disease are the relentless profit destroyers in dairy herds. A program of elimination of handicaps and improvement in practices often changes a herd from profit eaters to profit makers.

Take Honey Away—Surplus honey, especially comb honey, should be removed from the bees as soon as the sections are entirely sealed. If section honey is left in the hive very long after it is properly sealed, the bees will add considerable propolis to both the wax and the section and thereby lower the grade.

Prevent Weed Growth—Peat moss or buckwheat hulls may be used in the rose garden to assist in controlling weed growth and in retaining the moisture in and about the roots of the plants.

Save Young Pines—Insect pests attack trees as well as farm crops. Watch the tops of small white pines. If the needle begin to wilt on last year's growth, doubtless the white pine weevil is present. Control measures should be practiced. Your county agent will gladly furnish this information.

Plant Late Beans—A planting of bush snap beans now is likely to yield better than those planted early. It also will furnish a supply when the crop probably will be scarce.

Feed Swine Well—Keeping the pigs on full feed will help to fit them for the early fall market when prices run higher than in later months. The shorter feeding period also saves grain which would be eaten to maintain body weight in the longer period.

Give Hens A Chance—Fewer mistakes will be made in culling hens when the flock has been properly fed and the hens given every chance to lay as many eggs as they can.

Ottawa Conference Result Is Not Likely To Have Much Effect

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Ottawa, Ont., July 22.—The tinseled preliminaries ended, the imperial economic conference settled down today to a log-rolling business of trying to evolve a formula for a preferential tariff agreement between the various and conflicting parts of the far-flung British Empire.

They have tried it before—and failed.

Whether they can succeed this time is a matter of conjecture, upon which many conflicting opinions can be obtained—even among the delegates themselves.

If they do succeed, it bodes ill for American business, for the British Empire is America's best customer. If they don't succeed, it doesn't matter much. Perhaps it won't matter either way, for there are experts attending this conference who say with confidence that whatever agreements ultimately are arrived at, will look larger on paper than in reality.

Before the conference today, however, was Canada's bold proposition for a system of preferential tariffs within the Empire that is distinctly scary to American business.

The Canadian Premier, Richard B. Bennett, who coasted into power two years ago on the crest of a wave of Canadian resentment against the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, proposed that the Dominion free list be extended to the United Kingdom, that existing preferences be retained in favor of Great Britain, and that increased preferences be granted to a "selected list" of articles which Britain" is especially equipped to supply the Canadian market without injuring efficient Canadian enterprises."

In return for this, Canada asked the mother country to retain existing preferences for Canadian goods, and in addition to extend them to all other goods, natural and manufactured, which England now imports in great quantities from non-empire countries.

Bennett's proposal was addressed principally to Great Britain, but he stated that it is equally applicable to all other parts of the empire where it might prove "mutually advantageous."

Today the conference split up into committees to study the Bennett proposal—behind closed doors. It is behind these closed doors that the history of this conference will be written in the weeks to come, and the probability is that there will be some extremely plain talking.

Five committees were formed in all, and their titles give indication of the nature of their labors. They are:

1. Committee on promotion of trade within the (British) commonwealth.
2. Committee on customs administration.
3. Committee on commercial relations with foreign nations.
4. Committee on monetary and financial questions.
5. Committee on methods of economic cooperation.

Pymatuning Jobs Now Held By 186

That Quota Alone Is County's Own Share; Beaver, Butler Aided

A total of 186 Lawrence county workmen, what might be compared to the force of a small industrial plant, were numbered among the crews of brush clearers busily engaged at the Pymatuning dam site today, R. L. Meermans, local state cooperative employment superintendent announced today.

This figure was carried in the letter which Meermans received from F. C. Borst, representative of the state's labor and industry department at Espyville, near the Pymatuning site.

Besides Lawrence county men there were the following quotas at work from Beaver and Butler counties on Saturday July 16. These numbers, now increased, showed Beaver had 52 men and Butler 31.

The Lawrence county quota was classified as follows: New Castle 120: Bessemer 2: Edinburg 1: Ellwood City, 35: Pulaski, 1: Wampum 6 and New Bedford 1. Volant, East Brook and other points also sent a new delegation there this week.

With Borst's letter came a request for seven additional men asking that they report for duty on Tuesday morning, July 26.

Rules Farrell Mayor Can Hold Justice Job Too

Judge McLaughry Hands Down Rule In Proceedings Brought Against Franek

MERCER, July 22.—Judge J. A. McLaughry today handed down a ruling in the quo warranto proceedings instituted against Mayor Joseph Franek of Farrell by Julius Shermer, holding that Mayor Franek can also hold his job as justice of peace until the expiration of his term on January 1, 1936.

Franek was named mayor of Farrell when that municipality became a third class city on January 1, 1932. He had previously been elected a justice of the peace by the borough voters and his term was not due to expire until 1936.

Shermer in seeking a ruling by the court, contended that Franek could not legally hold two jobs of the same character but the court ruled otherwise in handing down the opinion today.

Ottawa Conference Result Is Not Likely To Have Much Effect

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Ottawa, Ont., July 22.—The tinseled preliminaries ended, the imperial economic conference settled down today to a log-rolling business of trying to evolve a formula for a preferential tariff agreement between the various and conflicting parts of the far-flung British Empire.

They have tried it before—and failed.

Whether they can succeed this time is a matter of conjecture, upon which many conflicting opinions can be obtained—even among the delegates themselves.

If they do succeed, it bodes ill for American business, for the British Empire is America's best customer. If they don't succeed, it doesn't matter much. Perhaps it won't matter either way, for there are experts attending this conference who say with confidence that whatever agreements ultimately are arrived at, will look larger on paper than in reality.

Before the conference today, however, was Canada's bold proposition for a system of preferential tariffs within the Empire that is distinctly scary to American business.

The Canadian Premier, Richard B. Bennett, who coasted into power two years ago on the crest of a wave of Canadian resentment against the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, proposed that the Dominion free list be extended to the United Kingdom, that existing preferences be retained in favor of Great Britain, and that increased preferences be granted to a "selected list" of articles which Britain" is especially equipped to supply the Canadian market without injuring efficient Canadian enterprises."

In return for this, Canada asked the mother country to retain existing preferences for Canadian goods, and in addition to extend them to all other goods, natural and manufactured, which England now imports in great quantities from non-empire countries.

Bennett's proposal was addressed principally to Great Britain, but he stated that it is equally applicable to all other parts of the empire where it might prove "mutually advantageous."

Today the conference split up into committees to study the Bennett proposal—behind closed doors. It is behind these closed doors that the history of this conference will be written in the weeks to come, and the probability is that there will be some extremely plain talking.

Five committees were formed in all, and their titles give indication of the nature of their labors. They are:

1. Committee on promotion of trade within the (British) commonwealth.
2. Committee on customs administration.
3. Committee on commercial relations with foreign nations.
4. Committee on monetary and financial questions.
5. Committee on methods of economic cooperation.

That Quota Alone Is County's Own Share; Beaver, Butler Aided

A total of 186 Lawrence county workmen, what might be compared to the force of a small industrial plant, were numbered among the crews of brush clearers busily engaged at the Pymatuning dam site today, R. L. Meermans, local state cooperative employment superintendent announced today.

This figure was carried in the letter which Meermans received from F. C. Borst, representative of the state's labor and industry department at Espyville, near the Pymatuning site.

Besides Lawrence county men there were the following quotas at work from Beaver and Butler counties on Saturday July 16. These numbers, now increased, showed Beaver had 52 men and Butler 31.

The Lawrence county quota was classified as follows: New Castle 120: Bessemer 2: Edinburg 1: Ellwood City, 35: Pulaski, 1: Wampum 6 and New Bedford 1. Volant, East Brook and other points also sent a new delegation there this week.

With Borst's letter came a request for seven additional men asking that they report for duty on Tuesday morning, July 26.

Rules Farrell Mayor Can Hold Justice Job Too

Judge McLaughry Hands Down Rule In Proceedings Brought Against Franek

MERCER, July 22.—Judge J. A. McLaughry today handed down a ruling in the quo warranto proceedings instituted against Mayor Joseph Franek of Farrell by Julius Shermer, holding that Mayor Franek can also hold his job as justice of peace until the expiration of his term on January 1, 1936.

Franek was named mayor of Farrell when that municipality became a third class city on January 1, 1932. He had previously been elected a justice of the peace by the borough voters and his term was not due to expire until 1936.

Shermer in seeking a ruling by the court, contended that Franek could not legally hold two jobs of the same character but the court ruled otherwise in handing down the opinion today.

Many Grade Crossings Being Eliminated In State

HARRISBURG, July 22.—Steady progress in the elimination and improvement of grade crossings to safeguard the motoring public is reflected in a summary of Pennsylvania Department of Highway activities for the past 18 months, which Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis made public today. By the end of 1932 nearly $10,000,000 will have been expended in this field, the cost being divided between the department and various agencies as allocated by the Public Service commission.

In 1931 the department eliminated 23 railroads grade crossings, altered 21 crossings to improve sight distance, replaced or reconstructed 14 bridges, and eliminated the need for three existing bridges, with consequent saving in maintenance costs. The work cost approximately $3,970,951.61 of which the Highway department paid approximately $1,713,248.37.

During the six months of 1932 much work was started, which will be completed within the year, and actual completion was reported on three eliminations, two relocations, two bridges reconstructed and three bridges built where grade crossings formerly existed. Two crossings on the new rural route system were among those eliminated.

Ten projects are in progress which involve bridge construction, reconstruction, elimination of crossings by relocation, and in one instance both the road and the railroad are being moved to eliminate crossings and provide better road conditions. This year's work will cost about $6,000,000.

At present the department is interested in 18 cases pending before the Public Service commission.

Pennsylvania Is Fifth In Planes

Also Rank Fifth In Number Of Licensed Pilots, Figures Reveal

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent)
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22—Pennsylvania ranks fifth of the states in the total number of airplanes and fifth in the number of pilots licensed by the Department of Commerce, that Department reports.

On July first, the Keystone State had 564 planes. Of these, 456 had been licensed by the Commerce Department and 108 were unlicensed. Four states had a greater number of airplanes.

New York led the nation with 1,222 ships. California came second with 1,162. Illinois third with 689, Ohio fourth with 632 and Pennsylvania fifth.

Pennsylvania had 1,037 licensed pilots on the first of the month. Of these, 303 were transport pilots, 115 limited commercial, one industrial, and 618 had private flying licenses. There were eight glider pilots in the state.

The same four states—California, Illonis, New York and Ohio outranked the Keystone State in the number of licensed pilots.

Childhood Diseases Continue Active During Summer

HARRISBURG, July 22—Measles dropped from 8,000 cases in May to a total of 4,200 cases in June according to figures just made public by Dr. Emlyn Jones, Chief of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health. Even the latter figure is quite high for measles for this time of the year.

The other four of the "Five Childhood Diseases"—Chicken pox, scarlet fever, mumps, and whooping cough—registered a total of over 8,300 cases during the past month, making the figures 12,500 for all combined. This is a drop of 33 per cent from the records of May.

Tuberculosis was reported in a total of 931 cases for June. Compared with May this is a heavy increase, but April counted 831 and March 814, so that the figures increase. but April counted 831 and March 814, so that the figures for June are not so far out of line as they would seem. Slightly more than 4,000 cases have been reported during the first half of 1932. Compared with other years, this would indicate no unusual increase in the reported cases. How complete the reports are, is still an open question.

Pneumonia falls to a new low for the year of 532 cases. This is only half the number shown by April figures, and follows the seasonal tendency of that malady.

Diphtheria also registers its lowest point for the current year with 256 cases counted in the state wide returns. Glancing back over the figures for the past few years reveals the fact that this is a very low incidence for this month for diphtheria. In '28 and '29 the first summer month showed more than 500 cases in the reports.

Stamped Envelope Users Can Secure Regular Style Now

Need Not Accept Old Envelopes With Additional Cent Stamp Affixed

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Users of stamped envelopes in New Castle need no longer accept the old style two-cent envelope with an adhesive one-cent stamp attached from the local post office unless they so desire.

The post office department has just notified the local postmaster that he no longer need continue the sale of the old-style two-cent envelope by affixing a one cent stamp. Postal patrons should now be supplied with the new three-cent stamped envelope if they so desire, the department rules.

In order to dispose of a portion of the large supply of two-cent stamped envelopes on hand, the post office department on June ninth instructed all postmasters to affix one-cent stamps to their two-cent stamped envelopes and ruled that these envelopes would be acceptable under the new three-cent postage rate. The department has now concluded, however, that this procedure need not be continued indefinitely after stocks of the regular three-cent envelopes have been received.

"Post office patrons would have cause for complaint if required to accept stamped envelopes with adhesive stamps attached for an undue length of time," the department declared. "It is not desired that local printers and other large envelope users shall be required to accept two-cent envelopes with one-cent stamps affixed in lieu of regular three-cent envelopes unless it is satisfactory to the purchaser."

State Labor Camps Kept Fit For Summer

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, July 22—Labor Camps in Pennsylvania, the sanitation and medical care of which were placed under the care of the State Department of Health, need to be rearranged to meet hot weather conditions, Mr. Coleman B. Mark, Maintenance Engineer, State Health Department has been in the field supervising that work.

Tents that needed a stove to make them comfortable in the winter, now find that stove and piping removed, and provisions made to keep out flies, mosquitoes and other insects, in order that the tent dwellers may enjoy plenty of fresh air, and not be menaced by the visits of these well known carriers of disease.

Summer food supplies must be tightly screened away from flies; kitchen and mess hall must be protected from these dangerous pests; there must be no opportunity at any time for them to come in contact with any food entering the kitchen; all waste and garbage must be quickly deposited in tightly closed cans and frequently taken away and disposed of beyond the reach of camp surroundings. Summer sanitation must be complete.

Camp cleanliness, which has been carefully looked after ever since they were opened and occupied, now assumes ever greater importance, as the sun bears down with increasing heat. No chance is given for germs to multiply and become a menace in the state labor camps.

Redoubled vigilance as to the freshness and quality of the food must be maintained by the Service of Supply. Water must be retested to be sure it contains nothing to menace health. Milk supplies must meet the very high requirements set up by the State Department of Health. The good health record of the past in these Labor Camps must be maintained throughout the summer months.

Pennsylvania Is Fifth In Planes

Also Rank Fifth In Number Of Licensed Pilots, Figures Reveal

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent)
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22—Pennsylvania ranks fifth of the states in the total number of airplanes and fifth in the number of pilots licensed by the Department of Commerce, that Department reports.

On July first, the Keystone State had 564 planes. Of these, 456 had been licensed by the Commerce Department and 108 were unlicensed. Four states had a greater number of airplanes.

New York led the nation with 1,232 ships. California came second with 1,162, Illinois third with 689, Ohio fourth with 632 and Pennsylvania fifth.

Pennsylvania had 1,037 licensed pilots on the first of the month. Of these, 303 were transport pilots, 115 limited commercial, one industrial, and 618 had private flying licenses. There were eight glider pilots in the state.

The same four states—California, Illionis, New York and Ohio outranked the Keystone State in the number of licensed pilots.

Childhood Diseases Continue Active During Summer

HARRISBURG, July 22—Measles dropped from 8,000 cases in May to a total of 4,200 cases in June according to figures just made public by Dr. Emlyn Jones, Chief of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health. Even the latter figure is quite high for measles for this time of the year.

The other four of the "Five Childhood Diseases"—Chicken pox, scarlet fever, mumps, and whooping cough—registered a total of over 8,300 cases during the past month, making the figures 12,500 for all combined. This is a drop of 33 per cent from the records of May.

Tuberculosis was reported in a total of 931 cases for June. Compared with May this is a heavy increase, but April counted 831 and March 814, so that the figures increase, but April counted 831 and March 814, so that the figures for June are not so far out of line as they would seem. Slightly more than 4,000 cases have been reported during the first half of 1932. Compared with other years, this would indicate no unusual increase in the reported cases. How complete the reports are, is still an open question.

Pneumonia falls to a new low for the year of 532 cases. This is only half the number shown by April figures, and follows the seasonal tendency of that malady.

Diphtheria also registers its lowest point for the current year with 256 cases counted in the state wide returns. Glancing back over the figures for the past few years reveals the fact that this is a very low incidence for this month for diphtheria. In '28 and '29 the first summer month showed more than 500 cases in the reports.

Stamped Envelope Users Can Secure Regular Style Now

Need Not Accept Old Envelopes With Additional Cent Stamp Affixed

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 22.—Users of stamped envelopes in New Castle need no longer accept the old style two-cent envelope with an adhesive one-cent stamp attached from the local post office unless they so desire.

The post office department has just notified the local postmaster that he no longer need continue the sale of the old-style two-cent envelope by affixing a one cent stamp. Postal patrons should now be supplied with the new three-cent stamped envelope if they so desire, the department rules.

In order to dispose of a portion of the large supply of two-cent stamped envelopes on hand, the post office department on June ninth instructed all postmasters to affix one-cent stamps to their two-cent stamped envelopes and ruled that these envelopes would be acceptable under the new three-cent postage rate. The department has now concluded, however, that this procedure need not be continued indefinitely after stocks of the regular three-cent envelopes have been received.

"Post office patrons would have cause for complaint if required to accept stamped envelopes with adhesive stamps attached for an undue length of time," the department declared. "It is not desired that local printers and other large envelope users shall be required to accept two-cent envelopes with one-cent stamps affixed in lieu of regular three-cent envelopes unless it is satisfactory to the purchaser."

State Labor Camps Kept Fit For Summer

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, July 22—Labor Camps in Pennsylvania, the sanitation and medical care of which were placed under the care of the State Department of Health, need to be rearranged to meet hot weather conditions. Mr. Coleman B. Mark, Maintenance Engineer, State Health Department has been in the field supervising that work.

Tents that needed a stove to make them comfortable in the winter, now find that stove and piping removed, and provisions made to keep out flies, mosquitoes and other insects, in order that the tent dwellers may enjoy plenty of fresh air, and not be menaced by the visits of these well known carriers of disease.

Summer food supplies must be tightly screened away from flies: kitchen and mess hall must be protected from these dangerous pests: there must be no opportunity at any time for them to come in contact with any food entering the kitchen: all waste and garbage must be quickly deposited in tightly closed cans and frequently taken away and disposed of beyond the reach of camp surroundings. Summer sanitation must be complete.

Camp cleanliness, which has been carefully looked after ever since they were opened and occupied, now assumes ever greater importance, as the sun bears down with increasing heat. No chance is given for germs to multiply and become a menace in the state labor camps.

Redoubled vigilance as to the freshness and quality of the food must be maintained by the Service of Supply. Water must be retested to be sure it contains nothing to menace health. Milk supplies must meet the very high requirements set up by the State Department of Health. The good health record of the past in these Labor Camps must be maintained throughout the summer months.

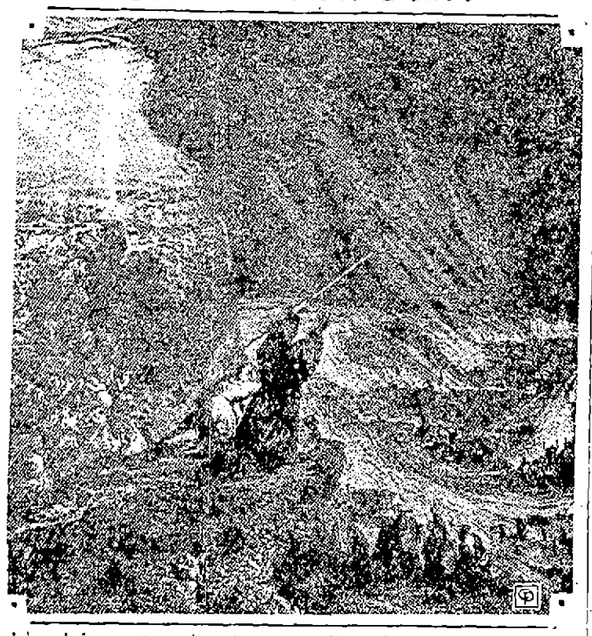
The Deliverance At The Red Sea

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text



Jehovah is my strength and song, And he is become my salvation. —Ex. 15:2.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL.

(The international uniform lesson for July 24 is Exodus 14:10-31, the Golden Text being Exodus 15:2—"Jehovah is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation.")

"Man's extremity is God's opportunity." The children of Israel were completely surrounded by apparently insuperable barriers: on their left was the Red Sea, before them and on their right impassible mountains and to their rear were the onrushing hosts of the Egyptians. But into this apparent cul de sac Jehovah had led them by his guiding pillar of cloud and fire.

Without in any sense discounting the place or value of prayer, it may be said that there comes a time when we must turn from prayer and act upon our askings. That time had come in Moses' ministry of leadership before God and his people. Therefore, God said to Moses, "Wherefore criest thou unto me? Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward."

Prayer indeed comes first if there is to be safe leadership in times of personal or national crisis. Then comes the time to act, to witness for God and venture forth with Him to realize the vision given in prayer or promised in His word. God's way is ever forward, even though seas must be opened or mountains moved. He never leads us into a blind alley. By faith men envision his forward way; by obedience they venture forth with him.

"Stand Still and See"

Israel was nevertheless to realize that their deliverance was to be purely supernatural. "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God." (Eph. 2:8.) So here is God's redemption of Israel at the Red Sea, which is a type of our redemption from sin. Moses says to the people, "Fear ye not, stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord, which he will show to you today: for the Egyptians whom ye have seen today, ye shall see them again no more forever. The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace."

So the messenger of Jehovah, whose present was symbolized by the pillar of cloud and fire, put himself between his people and their enemy, just as, later, upon Calvary, and prepared an exodus for them.

A Highway Through the Sea.

Adding his divine touch to purely natural sources God opened a highway and a dry way through the sea for his peoples' progress. "And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and made the sea dry ground, and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left."

"By faith they passed through the Red Sea as by dry land: which the Egyptians assaying to do were drowned." The sea which opened at the divine command for the salvation of God's believing people, closed at the same command upon their unbelieving enemies, to their destruction into which they persisted in rushing by hardening their hearts in rebellion against the God of Israel. Men called "statesmen" are frantically seeking a way out of the troublous times upon which the world has come.

"A Statesman is a man who foresees the direction of the chariot wheels of God and gets things out of their way." Moses was such a statesman for his day, and for such leadership God is seeking today.

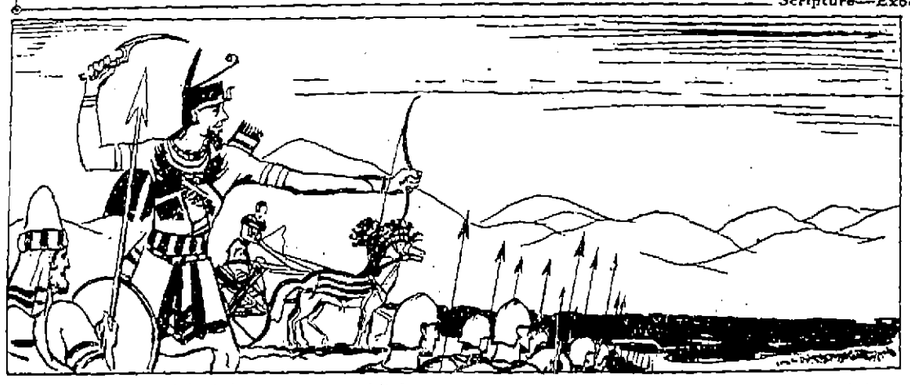
The Deliverance at the Red Sea — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Exodus 14:10-31.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher



As soon as Pharaoh had time to recover a bit from the tenth plague, which caused death to his eldest son, he began to reflect upon the loss Egypt would suffer in the emancipation of the Hebrew slaves. He, therefore, started in pursuit of them with a great army determined to bring them back.

Just when he thought he had them penned in with the Red Sea to their left, impassible mountains to their right and in front of them and his army in their rear, God sent a strong wind to open a path of dry land through the Red Sea for them.

The Egyptians followed out into the bed of the sea determined to bring back their former slaves to bondage. But God sent a storm upon them and caused their chariots to stick in the sand and put them to confusion.

GOLDEN TEXT—Exodus 15:2—

When the children of Israel had all crossed in safety God caused the waters to come together again and all of Pharaoh's army were drowned. It was clearly the act of God for the salvation of his believing people and a type of our deliverance from the bondage of sin through Jesus Christ.

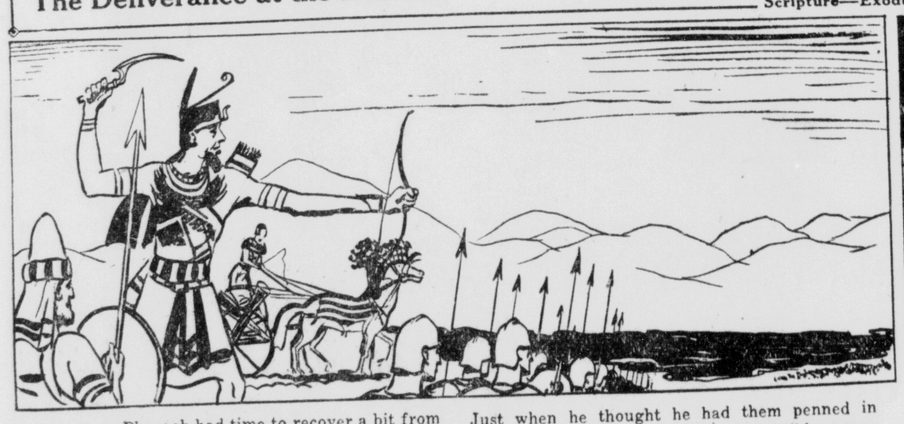
The Deliverance at the Red Sea

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Exodus 14:10-31.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher



As soon as Pharaoh had time to recover a bit from the tenth plague, which caused death to his eldest son, he began to reflect upon the loss Egypt would suffer in the emancipation of the Hebrew slaves. He, therefore, started in pursuit of them with a great army determined to bring them back.

Just when he thought he had them penned in with the Red Sea to their left, impassible mountains to their right and in front of them and his army in their rear, God sent a strong wind to open a path of dry land through the Red Sea for them.

The Egyptians followed out into the bed of the sea determined to bring back their former slaves to bondage. But God sent a storm upon them and caused their chariots to stick in the sand and put them to confusion.

GOLDEN TEXT—Exodus 15:2—

When the children of Israel had all crossed in safety God caused the waters to come together again and all of Pharaoh's army were drowned. It was clearly the act of God for the salvation of his believing people and a type of our deliverance from the bondage of sin through Jesus Christ.

Bean Beetles Are Bad, Fight Them With Poison

Although the county farm agent, Harold R. McCulloch, has given frequent warning against the prevalence of the Mexican bean beetle, many people have seemingly overlooked the warning to their sorrow.

The open winter last year resulted in a fewer bugs being killed off by freezing temperatures and bugs of all kinds are more plentiful this summer than for some time past.

The Mexican bean beetle is a newcomer here having migrated to this section of the country within the last three or four years, and is one of the most destructive garden pests which gardeners have to combat.

In a few days time, a heavy infestation will completely destroy a bean patch.

Only One Remedy

There is only one remedy which the county farm bureau suggests and that is poison, either in the form of dust or as a spray. Care must be exercised in applying the poison to get in on the under side of the leaf as that is where the beetle feeds. For this reason it is harder to control.

A choice of four dusts and two sprays is offered. The dusts include calcium arsenate, 1 pound; dusting sulphur, 1 pound, and hydrated lime 4 pounds; or calcium arsenate 1 pound, and hydrated lime 7 pounds; or magnesium arsenate, 1 pound; and hydrated lime, 5 pounds, or sodium flousilicate, 1 pound, and hydrated lime 9 pounds.

One of the sprays includes 3-4 pound of calcium arsenate, 1½ pounds of hydrated lime, and 50 gallons of water, or smaller proportions where less material is needed. The other spray contains 1 pound of magnesium arsenate and 50 gallons of water, or smaller portions where needed.

The materials should be thoroughly mixed and directed to the undersides of the leaves where the beetles feed principally. To avoid burning or scalding, the dusts should be applied when there is no moisture on the beans.

The first application should be applied when the over-wintering adults appear, or at least when the first injury or skeletonizing of the foliage is noticed. This time usually is when the third and fourth leaves begin to show. One to four applications should be made at 7 to 10-day intervals, the number of applications depending on the severity of the infestation.

There is no danger in treating bean plants after they begin to bear, since rinsing in cold water removes the spray or dust residue.

Fear 14 Drown In Pontiac Lake As Boats Upset

PONTIAC, Mich., July 22—Between ten and fourteen persons were feared to have lost their lives in Pontiac Lake as police today dragged the waters for bodies.

The victims were believed to have been drowned when their small boats capsized during a terrific rain and wind storm last night.

One body—that of William Burns has already been recovered.

Fear that the storm had taken a heavy toll of lives arose when five empty rowboats were found on the lake which was formed by the damming of the Huron river six miles west of here.

Two of the boats discovered were smashed on the dam, while the other three were found floating without occupants.

Authorities said at least ten persons who went boating on the lake to escape yesterday's intense heat were missing. Boat liveries reported that several of the craft which they had rented have not been brought back.

DETOUR DATA GOES ON TWO-WEEK BASIS

HARRISBURG, July 22.—The detour bulletin of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways will be issued every two weeks, instead of weekly, until the start of the fall road oiling season, Secretary Sam Lewis announced today.

Secretary Lewis said the change in the publication schedule of the bulletin will effect a savings of approximately $4000.

The highway chief explained that in cases of emergency, bulletins will be flashed state-wide through the State Police telephone typewriter system. Detour bulletins are posted in gasoline filling stations, garages, hotels, post offices, newspaper offices and other public places.

More Pennsylvanians Are Seeing Home State

(Special to The News.)

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 22.—More Pennsylvanians are seeing their home state this year than ever before, a survey by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation reveals. This is attributed largely to the concerted efforts of the commonwealth, the federation and other agencies in bringing before the people the many advantages Pennsylvania offers the tourist, and also to economic conditions that prompt many motorists to take shorter trips this season.

Reports from 86 A. A. A. clubs in Pennsylvania indicate that while travel information queries have fallen off slightly this season, in comparison with the several previous years, requests for data concerning trips within the state have increased. Many who took vacation tours of ten days, two weeks, or more in former years, now are confining their motor travel to day or week-end trips and, in consequence, are not going so far from home.

General economic conditions are reflected in the number of people who are taking advantage of the state camp facilities this season, according to S. Edward Gable, president of the federation. "Many who cannot afford 'expensive vacations at resorts,'" he said, "are seizing the opportunities offered in the commonwealth's parks, where outdoor living quarters are available by the day or by the season and where a vacation in the very heart of Pennsylvania's most beautiful areas can be enjoyed by an entire family at practically no cost except food and transportation. Thousands are vacationing in that way and finding it much to their liking, our survey reveals."

The federation called attention to the fact that Pennsylvania has 50 state forest public camps, suitable for camping and picnicking. Tables, benches, shelters, fireplaces and pure water are provided for the convenience of the public. In addition there are nine state parks, each with a distinct historical significance, and nine state forest parks. A list of these can be obtained by applying to the state department of forests and waters, Harrisburg, and camp site permits are obtained from the officer in charge of the reservation, who will help select a suitable site.

"More than ever before, Pennsylvanians are realizing this year that it is worth their while to see their home state and enjoy the many recreational advantages it offers," the federation head stated. "Thousands from outside this commonwealth are being attracted here by the historic shrines, beautiful scenery and numerous other features and, returning home, are more than satisfied with their visit.

"Let us all bear in mind that we can help in this 'See Pennsylvania' movement by seeing our home state first and, at the same time, do all we can to make the traveler welcome when he visits our community. Courteous traffic officers and individual citizens who do their share in welcoming the tourist when opportunity offers aid materially in keeping Pennsylvania in the forefront of states motorists want to visit."

Recent Visitor Gives Word Description Of Miss Eckels' Cottage

That bit of Utopia, "Bonnie Brae Lodge," log cabin designed and built by Miss Harriet J. Eckels, near New Wilmington, is still attracting almost daily visitors, and the number of names in the "guest book" is mounting higher and higher.

Knowing of the great interest created by mention of Miss Eckels' little residence in a recent issue of The News a local woman sends the following letter for publication. She writes the missive, believing that a description of Bonnie Brae Lodge will interest the people who have been unable to see it

"While in Cleveland the other day I was asked by a friend if I had seen Bonnie Brae Lodge, near New Wilmington. She was quite surprised to hear that I had not.

I was determined to see the cabin and drove by on my way back to New Castle. Just before entering New Wilmington on the Sharon road to the right one sees a rustic bridge across a spring run. The place is known as Shakey Hollow.

The trail leads up over the hill, winding through sugar, elm and oak trees. As one nears the top the first thing seen is a large stone chimney, some ten feet in width.

As you enter the lodge there is seen a beautiful rustic sign painted in old bronze—"Bonnie Brae Lodge." entering the large living room a large mirror reflects a huge old fashioned fire place, with a stand on which is hung a three legged iron kettle, and irons or "dogs" as some of the older people might call them.

This huge fire place gives place to a mantle on which one sees brass candlesticks, and a miniature production of the Old Oaken Bucket, but is in fact a clock.

The next thing that attracts attention is a large ox yoke made into a chandelier. This was used by the owners' ancestors and makes quite a unique lighting fixture.

Opposite the fireplace is a balcony, reached by a stairway made of trees. On the balcony is an old fashioned spinning wheel. The sleeping quarters, which lead from the balcony, are large and airy rooms, containing clothes cupboards and linen closets.

The cabin is modern in every way—bathroom with shower, kitchen equipped with electrical appliances of all kinds, automobile accomodations in the basement. There are two immense sleeping porches which also add to the comfort of the place.

Pleasing the children most of all is the swimming pool. A dam was erected, making quite a good sized pool.

It is well worth anyone's time to see this beautiful place. Hundreds from many states have visited and been thrilled with Bonnie Brae. The hospitable way in which guests are treated is most pleasing."

Miss Eckels, owner of the lodge, was a member of the American Red Cross and served her country during the World war. She embarked with unit 31 from Youngstown in 1918 and since her return has been a school nurse in Youngstown.

Twenty-four years ago The New Castle News gave a trip to Montreal to the person obtaining the largest number of News subscriptions. One of the the successful contestants was the owner of this attractive and unusual dwelling.

Erection of the home had nothing haphazard about it. It was the result of years of careful planning. Word of its prettiness got around even before completed, a year ago. Since then it has been inspected by a constant flow of visitors.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA POTATO TOUR

Lawrence County farmers are invited to join the Western Pennsylvania Potato Growers on their tour to the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster on August 9th and 10th.

The tour will visit the Agronomy Experimental Plots at Wooster and the Ranseyer Potato Farm Fields at Smithville, Ohio. Mr. Ranseyer is growing between 200 and 300 acres of potatoes this season.

Watch this column for further announcement next week.

4-H CLUB CAMP SCHEDULED FOR AUGUST

Lawrence County will be host to Western Pennsylvania 4-H Club Boys at their summer camp August 22nd to 26th.

Arrangements were completed at a recent meeting of County Agents representatives and A. L. Baker, State club leader; and through the cooperation of local Boy Scout leader, to hold this year's outing at Camp John M. Phillips along the Slippery Rock Creek, near Rose Point.

The five counties to be represented this year are: Lawrence, Butler, Beaver, Mercer, and Erie. The local county agent will be director of the camp; R. H. McDougall, Butler will have charge of the instructional training; Ross M. Gridley, Beaver and C. H. Waha, Mercer are the recreational leaders; T. H. Patton, Erie will arrange for camp fire programs and Roy M. Decker, assistant club leader of State College will be in charge of the vesper services.

BARLEY SEED TREATMENT PAYS DIVIDEND

Covered Smut and Stripe, two common diseases were controlled 100% by treating seed with organic mercury according to results obtained from demonstrations in the county this year. Loose Smut, a less serious disease was controlled about one-half by the same treatment.

The percent of trip and covered smut present in one of the untreated areas totaled 13.6. A dividend of 13.6% increase in yield barley will be paid on that field because it was treated.

The treatment was made to the seed barley before planting time; and consisted of dusting same with organic mercury preparation special for seed treatment. This can very easily be done by placing a portion of the seed to be treated with organic mercury in a barrel or other air tight container and revolving it for several minutes.

PRODUCE CLEAN EGGS TO SAVE EXTRA WORK

A little additional effort spent in the production of clean shelled eggs will be more than compensated for by the saving in time required to clean soiled eggs.

To produce clean shelled eggs, it is very important that sufficient nests properly located be provided for the layers and that eggs be gathered frequently. One nest for 4 or 5 birds should be allowed, and the nests should be located as far as possible from the drinking fountains and the hen exit doors.

Nesting materials should be replaced frequently to keep the eggs clean and to prevent breakage. Shavings are considered the best nesting material, although a number of producers use straw.

Dropping boards can be cleaned daily or else covered with 1½ inch mesh poultry netting to prevent the birds from walking in the droppings. Clean litter on the floor of the house also will help to keep the birds' feet clean. In wet weather, the birds should be kept confined to guard against muddy feet. If the birds enter the nests with soiled feet, all the eggs in the nest may become soiled.

FEED FOALS PLENTY TO PROMOTE GROWTH

A foal makes more than half its entire growth during the first year and if stunted during this time it will never fully recover.

Good bones and muscles are of prime importance with the horse and feeds which tend to produce these should be chosen. Nothing is superior to blue grass or other good pasture, with oats as the grain. Corn or barley may be used as part of the ration when properly balanced by nitrogenous feeds such as linseed oil meal or wheat bran. The legume hays, alfalfa and clover, are rich in lime the principal mineral component of the bones.

In the case of high grade and purebred draft foals, it is especially necessary that the supply of feed be liberal, for the price of the draft horse depends largely on the size.

FEED HOGS TO GET CHEAP RAPID GAINS

Pigs which are to be fattened for market need a good growing ration high in protein during the first four months of their lives so that they will develop large frames.

During this period they also should be kept on pasture which supplies a succulent feed, saves considerable grain, and furnishes enough feed to maintain body weight. The exercise and sunshine help to develop strong, healthy animals.

A good ration for this growing period is one largely used by Pennsylvania ton litter producers. It consists of 4 parts of ground shelled corn, 3 parts of oats, 2 parts of middlings, and 1 part of tankage by weight.

When pigs reach a weight of 100 pounds, which will be at approximately four months of age, they should be changed to a ration of largely corn and tankage. This can be fed in a self-feeder, with corn in one compartment and tankage in another. If fed mixed, the proportions are 9 parts of corn and 1 part of tankage. Middlings fed at this time will increase the rate of gain slightly but usually increases the cost also.

Full-feeding should be practiced in both growing and feeding periods for two reasons: It shortens the feeding period and gets hogs ready for market in fewer days, thus saving grain which would be required for maintaining body weight during the longer period. It also helps to get animals ready for the early fall market when prices are higher than later.

Farmers who butcher for a regular retail trade or for home use are not interested particularly in having hogs ready for early fall, but the same principles of good feeding apply.

PREVENT ROSE DAMAGE BY SULPHUR DUSTING

Powdery mildew on roses, which has been unusually severe this year, can be controlled by proper and timely applications of sulphur dust.

The fungus causing mildew attacks the leaves, stems, and buds of roses. If often weakens the plants and results in poor quality flowers.

Dusting sulphur (300-mesh or finer sulphur) will prevent this disease if the grower will carefully watch his plants and apply the dust as soon as the mildew appears. Then the dust should be applied at weekly intervals. Good results are obtained even when the sulphur is applied with a hand duster. Dusting should be done when there is little or no wind.

Application of sulphur dust to severely affected roses will check the disease. The best control, however, is obtained only when the dusting is first done before or as soon as the mildew appears.

THIS MATTER OF ACCOMMODATION

A CONSERVATIVE Bank—and no other bank is worthy of the name—must be cautious in making loans. It cannot afford to take even the ordinary risk of the business man. The business man in extending credit is doing so with his own wares. But a bank is loaning the money of its depositors.

THE safe bank—the conservative bank—the one that must be assured a loan will be promptly repaid and is properly secured is one that is a benefit to the entire community—absolutely safe for its depositors—wholly just to those who borrow.

The legume hays, alfalfa and clover, are rich in lime the principal mineral component of the bones.

In the case of high grade and purebred draft foals, it is especially necessary that the supply of feed be liberal, for the price of the draft horse depends largely on the size.

FEED HOGS TO GET CHEAP RAPID GAINS

Pigs which are to be fattened for market need a good growing ration high in protein during the first four months of their lives so that they will develop large frames.

During this period they also should be kept on pasture which supplies a succulent feed, saves considerable grain, and furnishes enough feed to maintain body weight. The exercise and sunshine help to develop strong, healthy animals.

A good ration for this growing period is one largely used by Pennsylvania ton litter producers. It consists of 4 parts of ground shelled corn, 3 parts of oats, 2 parts of middlings, and 1 part of tankage by weight.

When pigs reach a weight of 100 pounds, which will be at approximately four months of age, they should be changed to a ration of largely corn and tankage. This can be fed in a self-feeder, with corn in one compartment and tankage in another. If fed mixed, the proportions are 9 parts of corn and 1 part of tankage. Middlings fed at this time will increase the rate of gain slightly but usually increases the cost also.

Full-feeding should be practiced in both growing and feeding periods for two reasons: It shortens the feeding period and gets hogs ready for market in fewer days, thus saving grain which would be required for maintaining body weight during the longer period. It also helps to get animals ready for the early fall market when prices are higher than later.

Farmers who butcher for a regular retain trade or for home use are not interested particularly in having hogs ready for early fall, but the same principles of good feeding apply.

PREVENT ROSE DAMAGE BY SULPHUR DUSTING

Powdery mildew on roses, which has been unusually severe this year, can be controlled by proper and timely applications of sulphur dust.

The fungus causing mildew attacks the leaves, stems, and buds of roses. If often weakens the plants and results in poor quality flowers.

Dusting sulphur (300-mesh or finer sulphur) will prevent this disease if the grower will carefully watch his plants and apply the dust as soon as the mildew appears. Then the dust should be applied at weekly intervals. Good results are obtained even when the sulphur is applied with a hand duster. Dusting should be done when there is little or no wind.

Application of sulphur dust to severely affected roses will check the disease. The best control, however, is obtained only when the dusting is first done before or as soon as the mildew appears.

President Signs Bill Thursday

Nearly Four Billion Dollars Made Available For Relief

ACT EFFECTIVE WITHOUT DELAY

WASHINGTON, July 22.—President Hoover signed into law on Thursday the gigantic Federal relief plan that masses $3,800,000,000 in one coffer for invigorating business, increasing employment and relieving human destitution.

His approval came five days after the $2,122,000,000 bill that nearly doubles resources of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and opens its purse to needy states, emerged from a last-hour Congressional snarl.

The Presidential's signature, attached without ceremony or public comment, makes the relief act immediately effective. This means:

Operating funds of the Reconstruction Corporation are increased from $2,000,000,000 to $3,800,000,000;

$300,000,000 is available for advances to states for unemployment relief;

$1,500,000,000 is on tap for public construction and self liquidating private loans, and the financing of agriculture through credit corporations;

$120,000,000 is available for advances to states under the Federal-aid highway law;

$16,000,000 will go to roads and trails in the national parks and forests;

$186,234,000 is available for public building and waterway improvement when the condition of the treasury permits;

Federal reserve banks may discount eligible paper for individuals and corporations;

Within 10 days, Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal reserve system and Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, automatically are removed from the Reconstruction board;

Reports of all Reconstruction loans must be filed with Congress monthly.

Must Have Permit To Obtain Funds

Measure Will Prevent Many From Exploiting Present Conditions

HARRISBURG, July 22.—The bureau of assistance of the state department of welfare recently has received much correspondence from Better Business bureaus and Chambers of Commerce inquiring into the status of agencies and individuals soliciting funds for charitable purposes.

Under rulings of the Solicitations Act of 1925, agencies soliciting funds in Pennsylvania for charitable purposes, other than those organizations exempt by provisions of the act, are required to obtain certificates from the department of welfare.

Mrs. Martha J. Megee, director of the bureau, reports that in many instances investigations have disclosed attempts to exploit present conditions to the advantage of questionable charitable organizations and individual promoters.

Certificates of registration have been issued to 93 accredited organizations in the state, authorizing solicitation of funds during the calendar year to aid in carrying on their work. Agencies planning fund campaigns are warned that they must comply with the provisions of this law. Violation constitutes a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both.

Beaver Falls Man Rescued

CLEVELAND, O., July 22—Two flyers were soaking wet but unhurt when coast guards under Capt. John Daly rescued them from their amphibian plane after it dug its nose into Lake Erie off E. 9th street yesterday afternoon when William A. Warrick, the pilot forgot to raise the landing wheels before coming down on the water.

The plane was towed to shore and beached back of the coast guard station where mechanics set to work to repair the slight damage.

With Kenneth Wright of Beaver Falls, Pa., who had just bought the two-place amphibian, Warrick president of Skyways Inc., at Cleveland Airport set out for a demonstration flight which was to include a landing on the lake.

When the plane was landed, with its wheels not raised, the nose of the plane submerged in the water, taking the cockpit and its two occupants under the surface. The tail of the plane pointed skyward for a minute, then settled part way back raising the cockpit free of the water. As the flyers unfastened their safety belts and dived overboard motor boats hastened to their rescue.

Warrick was good natured about a great deal of kidding from persons who remembered that he had made the same sort of landing in the same plane from the same cause last summer off Edgewater Park.

Correct this sentence: "But the little grafters in my town," said the man, "aren't like those big crooks in New York."

Reynoldstowners To Meet On August 9

A quarter century of annual reunions will be completed Tuesday, August 9, when the Reynoldstowners gather again in their old school building.

Date for the event and general plans were talked over by the executive committee, Thursday night, at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Anna McGurk, president.

Since this will be the 25th reunion these in charge are going to make it bigger and better than ever. Invitations have been sent to many out-of-town Reynoldstown school pupils who haven't been seen here in many a year. It is hoped and believed that more will attend this time than ever before.

They will meet at the schoolhouse at 2:00 p. m., and later, after business meeting and reminsing, they will go to Cascade Park for supper. In case of rain the picnic supper will take place in the schoolhouse. Meat, ice cream and cream will be furnished by the association.

If any one has old school books or old pictures of interest to the former students they are asked to bring them along.

Committees are as follows: General, Robert Whaley, Ed. Bigley; coffee, Laura Warnock, Emma Waddington Kissinger and Kate Waldron; table, Mrs. Charles McCandless, Mrs. W. E. Brown, Mrs. R. C. Clark, Mrs. Norris Mitchell, Mrs. Clara Stockman; and transportation, Charles McCandless, Lou Genkinger, Ed. Marshall, Chester Morrow, Charles Patterson and Harry Marshall.

Believe Two Men Slaying Victims Due To Revenge

Revenge For Murder Of George "Red" Barker, Chicago Gunman, Held To Blame

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 23.—Revenge for the murder of George "Red" Barker was seen today as the motive for the assassination of Patrick Bernell, labor racketeer, and his bodyguard, William Marks. The two men were executed by machine gun and shotgun fire at a roadhouse near Shawano, Wis.

Hunted as a suspected participant in the killings was James "Fur" Sammons, one of Chicago's pioneer gangsters, who was recently released on a writ of habeas corpus from Joliet penitentiary where he was confined for murder.

Elopement Ends In Divorce Court

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—The whirlwind romance of Jane B. Stetson, daughter of the former American ambassador to Poland, John B. Stetson, Jr., and Thomas Cartledge, 28, wealthy treasurer of a florists company, has faded.

In a petition on file in common pleas court today, Cartledge sought a divorce from his wife, charging indignities to person.

Their marriage was revealed a few days after their elopment to Salisbury, Md., September 26, 1931, following what was described as a "whirlwind courtship" by Cartledge.

Step Father Reports Claire Stitt Missing

William Schell of 420 Epworth street, reported to the police Thursday, that his stepson, Claire Stitt, Jr., aged 16, was missing from home and asked the assistance of the police in an effort to locate him.

According to Mr. Schell, a man claiming to be holding a Rodeo on Scotland Lane and to have seventeen head of horses coming in, had offered the boy a job at $2.50 a day.

The boy had brought the man to his home for supper the day previous and again for breakfast on Thursday. Mr. Schell had made the man go away. The boy had apparently gone with him.

The man in the case gave the name of "Roberts", is about 28 or 30 years of age, five feet seven inches in height, weighs between 135 and 140 pounds and wearing a brown suit.

POWER FROM STATE WILL LIGHT CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Negotiations have been successfully completed by the Potomac Electric Power company through which hydroelectric power will be brought to the nation's capital to supplement the supply generated by steam in the Potomac company's plants.

The hydroelectric power is to come from the new plant on the Susquehanna river at Safe Harbor, Pa. The development in the art of transmitting large blocks of electric power at high voltage makes possible the interconnection of the Potomac system with the high tension transmission lines of the Safe Harbor-Baltimore systems.

Find Man Dead On Street Here

Anthony Perretti, 30, Dies This Morning — Coroner Views Remains

Anthony Perretti, aged about 30, of 207 South Jefferson street, was found apparently lifeless about 9:30 o'clock this morning in Diamond Alley extension, rear 510 South Jefferson street.

Officer Thomas Lynch accompanied by James Stockman answered a call. Finding the body still warm and with the possibility of life, they placed it in the police car and took it to the New Castle hospital.

There a physician found that the man was dead. The body was then removed to the police station and from there to the Capitola Funeral Home, after Coroner Orville Potter had been called and viewed the body, at the police station, death being found due to natural causes. It has been determined by this time that the body was that of Anthony Perretti.

He is survived by his mother Mrs. Carmella Perretti, three brothers, Samuel, Carl and Louis Perretti and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Marcella and Miss Viola Perretti, all of this city.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Pennsy's Regional Safety Mark Good

E. & A. Workers Play Part In Bettering Report; Records Tumble

Safety education pays and the Pennsylvania railroad knows it.

Erie & Ashtabula division headquarters today reported that the nine divisions that embrace the Central region have so far this month set up a record-shattering mark in eliminating accidents. Only six "reportable injury" cases have been recorded on the region to date.

Previous months have found nearly 25 reportable cases on the region's books by the 22nd. The E. & A. helps make up the Central territory.

Officials attribute the decrease in injuries to strict adherence to the safety rules on the part of trainmen and the safety rallies that constantly keep safe-railroading before the men.

Bids Opened On Highway Projects

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 22.—Bids were opened today in the Department of Highways on ten road and bridge improvement projects. Contractors submitted 125 bids on the ten jobs.

Unofficial low bidders were:

Crawford—.35 of a mile in Meadville; Mayer Construction Company, Erie, $5,392.

Erie—7.2 miles on Route 709; Holmes Construction Company, Wooster, Ohio, $192,423.

MERCER YOUTHS INJURED IN CRASH

MERCER, July 22.—Charles Anderson, aged 20, is in the Mercer hospital, suffering with a fractured right arm, and Carl Hoover received cuts and bruises when the auto in which they were riding collided with a car driven by Samuel Redmond on the Mercer-Clarksville road.

Both cars were damaged in the collision, but Redmond who was alone in the one machine escaped uninjured.

Downtown At Standstill As Midnight Storm Rages

Downtown traffic proceeded with caution last night as the midnight wind and rainstorm raged, taking no chance whatever in striking floating objects or flooding carburetors in the creek-like streams that covered the streets. However, a large number of automobiles were stalled because of that.

At the East Washington-North Mill street corner a large section of a temporary fence erected along the new Woods building curbline was ripped out of place. It floated in the strong water current across to the Citizens National bank corner, but police later restored it to its place.

Pedestrians Scurry

Late-hour pedestrians found street crossing difficult within a few moments after the rain deluge began, but few desired to continue in the electrical storm that broke along with the other. Shelter was sought in open stores. Few street intersections were clear of water.

In the vicinity of the Johnson Bronze plant, South Mill street, a large group of cars were halted. Kind motorists whose cars kept operating helped to shove affected autos out of the trolley right-of-way.

Both the Neshannock creek and Shenango river stages were higher this morning.

Here and there on residential property throughout the downtown area trees had been felled either by lightning bolts or by the terrific wind.

Can Borrow On Bonus Anytime

Congress Eliminates Two-Year Waiting Period—Interest Rate Reduced

Numerous world war veterans of this vicinity will benefit by legislation passed at the last session of congress eliminating the two year waiting period before they are entitled to borrow on their adjusted service certificates.

On and after July 25, 1932, veterans are entitled to borrow 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates regardless of how long they have had them. In addition, the interest rate on all loans have been reduced from 4½ per cent to 3½ per cent. Many veterans neglected to make application for their certificates until recently and then learned that they would have to wait two years after the date of issue before they could derive any benefits.

Application blanks have been received at the office of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, and veterans holding certificates should present them immediately if they desire to take advantage of the new law.

POWER FROM STATE WILL LIGHT CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Juy 22.—Negotiations have been successfully completed by the Potomac Electric Power company through which hydro-electric power will be brought to the nation's capital to supplement the supply generated by steam in the Potomac company's plans.

The hydroelectric power is to come from the new plant on the Susquehanna river at Safe Harbor, Pa. The development in the art of transmitting large blocks of electric power at high voltage makes possible the interconnection of the Potomac system with the high tension transmission lines of the Safe Harbor-Baltimore systems.

Find Man Dead On Street Here

Anthony Perretti, 30, Dies This Morning — Coroner Views Remains

Anthony Perretti, aged about 30, of 207 South Jefferson street, was found apparently lifeless about 9:30 o'clock this morning in Diamond Alley extension, rear 510 South Jefferson street.

Officer Thomas Lynch accompanied by James Stockman answered a call. Finding the body still warm and with the possibility of life, they placed it in the police car and took it to the New Castle hospital.

There a physician found that the man was dead. The body was then removed to the police station and from there to the Capitola Funeral Home, after Coroner Orville Potter had been called and viewed the body, at the police station, death being found due to natural causes. It has been determined by this time that the body was that of Anthony Perretti.

He is survived by his mother Mrs. Carmella Perretti, three brothers, Samuel, Carl and Louis Perretti and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Marcella and Miss Viola Perretti, all of this city.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Pennsy's Regional Safety Mark Good

E. & A. Workers Play Part In Bettering Report; Records Tumble

Safety education pays and the Pennsylvania railroad knows it.

Erie & Ashtabula division headquarters today reported that the nine divisions that embrace the Central region have so far this month set up a record-shattering mark in eliminating accidents. Only six "reportable injury" cases have been recorded on the region to date.

Previous months have found nearly 25 reportable cases on the region's books by the 22nd. The E. & A. helps make up the Central territory.

Officials attribute the decrease in injuries to strict adherence to the safety rules on the part of trainmen and the safety rallies that constantly keep safe-railroading before the men.

Bids Opened On Highway Projects

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 22.—Bids were opened today in the Department of Highways on ten road and bridge improvement projects. Contractors submitted 125 bids on the ten jobs.

Crawford—.25 of a mile in Meadville; Mayer Construction Company, Erie, $5,392.

MERCER YOUTHS INJURED IN CRASH

MERCER, July 22.—Charles Anderson, aged 20, is in the Mercer hospital, suffering with a fractured right arm, and Carl Hoover received cuts and bruises when the auto in which they were riding collided with a car driven by Samuel Redmond on the Mercer-Clarksville road.

Both cars were damaged in the collision, but Redmond who was alone in the one machine escaped uninjured.

Downtown At Standstill As Midnight Storm Rages

Downtown traffic proceeded with caution last night as the midnight wind and rainstorm raged, taking no chance whatever in striking floating objects or flooding carburetors in the creek-like streams that covered the streets. However, a large number of automobiles were stalled because of that.

At the East Washington-North Mill street corner a large section of a temporary fence erected along the new Woods building curbline was ripped out of place. It floated in the strong water current across to the Citizens National bank corner, but police later restored it to its place.

Pedestrians Scurry

Late-hour pedestrians found street crossing difficult within a few moments after the rain deluge began, but few desired to continue in the electrical storm that broke along with the other. Shelter was sought in open stores. Few street intersections were clear of water.

In the vicinity of the Johnson Bronze plant, South Mill street, a large group of cars were halted. Kind motorists whose cars kept operating helped to shove affected autos out of the trolley right-of-way.

Both the Neshannock creek and Shenango river stages were higher this morning.

Here and there on residential property throughout the downtown area trees had been felled either by lightning bolts or by the terrific wind.

Can Borrow On Bonus Anytime

Congress Eliminates Two-Year Waiting Period—Interest Rate Reduced

Numerous world war veterans of this vicinity will benefit by legislation passed at the last session of congress eliminating the two year waiting period before they are entitled to borrow on their adjusted service certificates.

On and after July 25, 1932, veterans are entitled to borrow 50 per cent of the face value of their certificates regardless of how long they have had them. In addition, the interest rate on all loans have been reduced from 4½ per cent to 3½ per cent. Many veterans neglected to make application for their certificates until recently and then learned that they would have to wait two years after the date of issue before they could derive any benefits.

Application blanks have been received at the office of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, and veterans holding certificates should present them immediately if they desire to take advantage of the new law.

Picnic Supper In Park Grove

M. E. G. Auxiliary Has Outing Last Evening; Other Notes Of Interest Here

One of the special summer events of the M. E. G. Auxiliary, an organization of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, was a picnic supper given Thursday evening at Cascade Park.

Eleven members and one guest were present to enjoy the affair. The picnic menu was served in the grove at about 6 o'clock fast time, and was most appetizing.

Arrangements were in charge of Miss Evelyn Marshall, Mrs. Clarence Allen and Mrs. Edwin Walker. After supper a social time and enjoyment of the amusements offered at the Park took place.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Scheidemantle and daughter, of Fifth street, returned home Wednesday night from Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Arley R. Smith and family, of Newark, N. J., spent Thursday calling on friends in seventh ward.

Mrs. O. F. Shaffer, of 205 Newell avenue, spent Wednesday in Zelienople.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bollinger, and family of West Madison avenue, left yesterday for a few days stay with Mr. Bollinger's parents, Butler county.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Cushion and family, of North Liberty street, are planning to move soon to West Madison avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mullen and family are moving soon from North Liberty to North Cedar street.

TEAM ENTERTAINS

A benefit party was enjoyed Wednesday night at the Columbus hall on South Liberty street. A large crowd of friends of the Mahoning A. A. members gathered at the hall and took part in the social time and entertainment. Various contests added to the fun of the evening. Music was furnished by an orchestra of local talent, led by Vic Gaspare.

Observations In 7th Ward

That drinking fountain at Wabash and Liberty holds great facination for local kiddies and they drink water by the hour...no other way they could be persuaded to down so much of the health liquid...Some of the Seventh ward dogs who have been such free lances all their lives are regretting that the city found it necessary to appoint a bothersome dog catcher...Their style is somewhat cramped by ropes and chains from their necks...A tennis tournament on the Cherry street courts Wednesday evening attracted a great amount of interest...Thirteen large picnics were given by local organizations during the several weeks since June 22...One of the B. and O. men, long in the service and reputed to be very reliable in his statements, made a bid for membership in the Tall Story Club yesterday when he remarked to the writer that one year it was so cold in Middlefield, O., that nails fell right out of your shoes...Reading books in the summer is a hard job for children, it seems, as none of the library Travel Club members have been able to complete the reading of ten required travel books during the past four weeks...A group of thirty or forty people gathered around a Madison avenue funeral home yesterday afternoon to watch the triple funeral procession leave there for Oak Park cemetery.

MAN HAS HEMORRHAGE

Police authorities were called to the Liberty street park Wednesday night where a man who had been traveling through here on freights, lay apparently seriously ill. He was removed immediately to the New Castle hospital where it was found he had been stricken with a hemorrhage, brought on by a recent operation in his abdomen.

Famous Mining Engineer Dies By Own Hand

G. E. Huttle, 65, In Ill Health, Suicides At His Home In Scottdale

(International News Service)

SCOTTDALE, Pa., July 22.—Protracted ill health today was ascribed as the motive for the suicide of G. E. Huttle 65, famous mining engineer and technician, whose body, with a bullet in the brain and a revolver nearby, was found in his home here.

Huttle, who had been chief mechanical engineer for the H. C. Frick Coke Company for 30 years, resigned active duty two years ago but continued as technical advisor in the development of mechanical improvements in the industry

Before entering the Frick concern's employ, Huttle had been active in the Scranton anthracite area. One of the greatest mining improvements, the modern ventilation system, was credited to his inventive genius, as were the replacement of antiquated mining machinery with steam driven engines and the development of the present day under-cutting machines.

He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter.

Youngster Snarls Pittsburgh Autos

Youngster Wanders Away On Kiddie Car And Ties Up Automobile Traffic

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—Automobile horns echoed and traffic became snarled on a street corner here today all because curly-headed Billie Wilson, 3, of Urbana, O., wandered aimlessly about on his kiddie car.

Billie protested his "arrest" by a traffic officer vigorously but nevertheless he was taken to police headquarters and marked "lost."

Reduces Size Of Auto Card Forms

Application Forms Will Be Smaller Easing Mail Burden

HARRISBURG, July 22—Renewal application forms for 1933 motor vehicle registration have been reduced in size from 11 inches in length to 9½ inches, the width remaining the same. Renewal applications for operator's licenses heretofore 9½ inches long will be 8½ inches. No change has been made in the width.

The containers or envelopes in which the applications are mailed instead of being 11 3-8 inches long and 4 7-16 inches wide as at present, will be 5 inches in length and 4 7-8 inches in width. Envelopes for operator's licenses have been reduced from 9 7-8 inches by 4 7-16 inches to 5 inches by 4 7-8 inches. The card stock used has been reduced from 100 to 72 pounds per ream. This means an annual saving of the cost of applications and envelopes.

The reduced weight means faster handling during the rush months by both Comonwealth and Federal employes. The estimated weight of 1,500,000 motor vehicle registration applications and envelopes under the old system was 71,500 pounds. By the new system, the postmen of the State will be required to carry only 47,700 pounds, or 23,800 pounds less. It will mean that a smaller number of mail pounches will be required in the mailing unit of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The mailing and return envelopes for both registration and operators' licenses are practically square which facilitates inserting applications. They will be brown craft paper providing greater strength and less cost while retaining the same durability. The envelopes have been designed to conform with existing postal regulations.

Nineteen Children At Crawford-Oak Ridge

Nineteen Boys And Girls Are Now Listed At The Crawford-Oak Ridge Home

The number of children now staying at the Crawford-Oak Ridge home are fourteen boys and five girls. There are two of the children who haven't yet reached the age of six while the oldest are about fourteen.

It is not hard to find something to do to while away the hours until bedtime, for these children manage to invent all kinds of things to amuse them.

The older boys have great sport, out in the field near the home, playing ball. The smaller children, who are not yet old enough to indulge in these games play in the yard about the home.

Schemes for giving something for nothing, says the office cynic, should prove especially attractive at a time when so many people have nothing. —The Boston Evening Transcript.

Famous Mining Engineer Dies By Own Hand

G. E. Huttle, 65, In Ill Health, Suicides At His Home In Scottdale

(International News Service)

SCOTTDALE, Pa., July 22.—Protracted ill health today was ascribed as the motive for the suicide of G. E. Huttle 65, famous mining engineer and technician, whose body, with a bullet in the brain and a revolver nearby, was found in his home here.

Huttle, who had been chief mechanical engineer for the H. C. Frick Coke Company for 30 years, resigned active duty two years ago but continued as technical advisor in the development of mechanical improvements in the industry.

Before entering the Frick concern's employ, Huttle had been active in the Scranton anthracite area. One of the greatest mining improvements, the modern ventilation system, was credited to his inventive genius, as were the replacement of antiquated mining machinery with steam driven engines and the development of the present day under-cutting machines.

He is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter.

Youngster Snarls Pittsburgh Autos

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—Automobile horns echoed and traffic became snarled on a street corner here today all because curly-headed Billie Wilson, 3, of Urbana, O., wandered aimlessly about on his kiddie car.

Billie protested his "arrest" by a traffic officer vigorously but nevertheless he was taken to police headquarters and marked "lost."

Reduces Size Of Auto Card Forms

Application Forms Will Be Smaller Easing Mail Burden

HARRISBURG, July 22—Renewal application forms for 1933 motor vehicle registration have been reduced in size from 11 inches in length to 9½ inches, the width remaining the same. Renewal applications for operator's licenses heretofore 9½ inches long will be 8½ inches. No change has been made in the width.

The containers or envelopes in which the applications are mailed instead of being 11 3-8 inches long and 4 7-16 inches wide as at present, will be 5 inches in length and 4 7-8 inches in width. Envelopes for operator's licenses have been reduced from 9 7-8 inches by 4 7-16 inches to 5 inches by 4 7-8 inches. The card stock used has been reduced from 100 to 72 pounds per ream. This means an annual saving of approximately $8000 to the State in the cost of applications and envelopes.

The reduced weight means faster handling during the rush months by both Comonwealth and Federal employes. The estimated weight of 1,500,000 motor vehicle registration applications and envelopes under the old system was 71,500 pounds. By the new system, the postmen of the State will be required to carry only 47,700 pounds, or 23,800 pounds less. It will mean that a smaller number of mail pouches will be required in the mailing unit of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The mailing and return envelopes for both registration and operators' licenses are practically square which facilitates inserting applications. They will be brown craft paper providing greater strength and less cost while retaining the same durability. The envelopes have been designed to conform with existing postal regulations.

Nineteen Children At Crawford-Oak Ridge

Nineteen Boys And Girls Are Now Listed At The Crawford-Oak Ridge Home

The number of children now staying at the Crawford-Oak Ridge home are fourteen boys and five girls. There are two of the children who haven't yet reached the age of six while the oldest are about fourteen.

It is not hard to find something to do to while away the hours until bedtime, for these children manage to invent all kinds of things to amuse them.

The older boys have great sport out in the field near the home, playing ball. The smaller children, who are not yet old enough to indulge in these games play in the yard about the home.

Schemes for giving something for nothing, says the office cynic, should prove especially attractive at a time when so many people have nothing. —The Boston Evening Transcript.

Compensation Referee Must Settle Dispute

Must Make Decision As To Whether Man's Death Was Murder Or Suicide

CORONER'S JURY UNABLE TO DECIDE

By GENE MYERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 22—When T. Duncan Just, referee for the State Compensation Board, hands down a ruling early in August in the case of Mrs. Josephine Forti, widow of Samuel Forti, Lansdale foundry worker, he will, in all probability, settle a question which is still a topic of debate here.

If Forti died by his own hand, Mrs. Forti is not allowed compensation.

If he died while in the performance of duty, she can collect.

But the manner in which Forti met death has never been established. A coroner's jury here was unable to decide the exact manner in which Forti died.

On the night of February 18 last, either Forti constructed the crude gallows and placed a noose around his neck, or a murderer slipped into the washroom where he was sitting, caught him unaware and murdered him.

Member Of Cult

Conjecture was rife after Forti was found hanging. Investigations unearthed facts that showed Forti was a member of a mysterious cult.

State police contended from the outset that Forti had taken his own life.

Chief of Police Samuel Wolfindin, of Lansdale, declared that Forti was murdered. Wolfindin, to great extent, based his theory on the fact that the noose which was found around Forti's neck, was tied from behind, in a manner which, he said, it would be impossible for Forti to tie himself.

Bruises were found on his face.

State police said these bruises were received when Forti's body swung from the gallows against lockers in the washroom, and not from a beating.

The evidence concerning the bruises was given at the compensation hearing.

After concluding the hearing, Referee Just announced the decision was to be held under advisement. He is expected to hand down a ruling early next month.

Burning Brush On Dam Site Arouses Forest Fire Tales

Heavy Pall Of Smoke Hangs Over Upper Shenango Valley

HARRISBURG, July 22— The dense pall of smoke that has lately hung over the Shenango Valley in Crawford county, for nearly twenty miles between Linesville and Jamestown has caused considerable comment among visitors to this section who believed that uncontrolled forest fires were raging.

The odor of burning timber and rolling clouds of blue smoke were not, however, from forest fires, but came from the timber cutting operations at the Pymatuning reservoir project, where some twenty-four crews of thirty-six men each are clearing the woods growth from 14,500 acres of land, which will be flooded by the great reservoir.

Approximately 8000 acres already have been cleared. R. J. Ferris, an employe of the Water and Power Resources Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, who is engineer in charge of field operations, estimates that the entire reservoir will be cleared of timber by January 1, 1933.

Viewing the progress of this great undertaking is one of the principal attractions for people living in northwestern Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio. Thousands of tourists visit the reservoir site each month and on favorable days hundreds go into the Pymatuning swamp, parts of which are now for the first time within man's knowledge accessible for inspection without danger of becoming lost or trapped by quagmires.

Great openings have been cut into the timber and brush growth which always has formed a discouraging barrier to those wishing to explore the dark depths of the swamp.

Ladies Attend Big Meeting At Warren

They are respectively state department conductress and state department patriotic instructor.

Mrs. Dora Raffensturger, national past president, was entertained and a luncheon was held at 1 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A. there. Plans were announced there of a state-wide rally of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliaries on August 13 at Erie. All members of the V. F. W. and auxilaries will be welcome at this rally.

GENERAL PRICE COMPLIMENTS BOYS

Citizen-Soldiers Sunburned And Hardened By Two Weeks Of Intensive Practice

(International News Service)

CAMP O'NEIL, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 22.—Sunburned and hardened by two weeks of rigorous army training in the field and happy to receive two week's pay from Uncle Sam, more than 4500 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen packed up today and prepared to return to their home armories.

It was a busy and happy vacation for the citizen-soldiers. Crammed into the two weeks were a review by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, commander-in-chief of the guard, another by Major General William G. Price, Jr., commander of the 28th Division, a two-day road march and maneuvers against a mythical enemy, and numerous military competitions and interesting phases of instruction.

Proud Of Boys

"I am proud of my boys," General Price said at a conference last night. "They did very well during this training period. I am particularly pleased with the soldiery manner with which they conducted themselves during the maneuvers we held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Weather conditions were against them, but the entire organization functioned very smoothly."

Up till noon today, the soldiers continued their training in the use of small arms. The difficult schedule kept them busy almost until the time of departure.

The regiments completing their summer camp training today were: 56th Infantry Brigade Staff and Headquarters, commander, Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield of Philadelphia; 111th Infantry Regiment, commander, Col. Charles B. Myers, with companies from Philadelphia, Chester, Doylestown, Media, West Chester, Phoenixville, Norristown and Pottstown; 112th Infantry, commander, Col. C. Blaine Smathers, with companies from Grove City, Erie, Oil City, Corry, Butler, Meadville, Ridgway, Warren, Bradford, Franklin and Kane; 103d Medical Regiment, commander, Col. Edward M. Iland, from Coraopolis, Philadelphia, Mansfield, Kingston, Ligonier, Lebanon, Lancaster, Canonsburg, Wellsboro, and Reading; 103d Cavalry Regiment, commander, Arthur C. Colahan, with troops from Philadephia, Lewisburg, Sunbury, New Castle, Lock Haven, Boalsburg and Bellefonte; 28th Division Trains, under Major George P. Drake, from Harrisburg, York, Gettysburg and Pine Grove.

Units to remain in camp for one more week were: Division special troops, Commander Major James B. Cousart, from Philadelphia, York, Pittsburgh and Norristown; First City Troop, Commander Captain Effingham B. Norris of Philadelphia; Headquarters and Staff of the 52nd Cavalry Brigade under Brigadier General Edward Shannon.

Two regiments of infantry and one regiment of cavalry will arrive Saturday for a similar stay. They will occupy tents vacated by the departing units.

Woman Confesses Telling Untruth To Get Insurance

Erie Woman Falsely Identifies Body Found In Lake As That Of Former Husband

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., July 22.—Police today announced that Mrs. Rose Miller, 58, confessed to falsely identifying the body of a man found on a beach here as her husband in order to collect insurance of $995.

Mrs. Miller signed the alleged confession after being grilled for four hours, according to police.

Mrs. Miller erred when she gave her husband's age as 33. The dead man is between 45 and 50 years old, authorities said. Trademarks found on the body's clothing lead police to believe the man is from Pittsburgh.

Having been married three times, and the common-law wife of a fourth man, Mrs. Miller also confessed she had been arrested several times for forgery, pilfering a store, bootlegging and minor charges, police said.

Explains Cameras At Scout Camp

Scouts At Camp Phillips Are Entertained By Camera Exhibit

(Special to The News.)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 22.—The campfire was again the feature of the day at Camp Phillips with the scouts being entertained by Sid Smith, scoutmaster of New Castle troop 15 and professional photographer. Most of the boys never dared to take a camera apart to find out what takes the pictures, so Mr. Smith did this. The different types of cameras were explained and suggestions for the requirements of the photography merit badge were made. Then the ways of taking pictures at night were demonstrated. Mr. Smith concluded his interesting demonstration by taking pictures and developing them before the audience. If there aren't more photography merit badges awarded at the next court of honor it won't be Sid's fault.

In a previous news report the statement was made that it seemed that West Pittsburg troop 1 has acquired New Castle 17's habit of winning inspection. They have. Poister hut, Newmeyer, Bannon, Buchanan, Snodgrass, Aloe and Koss, won it again Thursday for the fifth time this week. And it isn't because the other huts aren't working. They are, but they aren't working as hard as these fellows.

At the color ceremony Wilfred (Radio) Hazen was presented with his first year emblem, Gillis Falls received his Wayseeker arrow and Pathfinders arrows were won by Dick Wallace and Francis Alexander.

Al Stump, the camp quartermaster, asked for leave of absence to go to Cleveland on a pleasure trip. He left yesterday morning in great spirits in having secured permission but returned last evening with a headache. His exclamation upon being questioned as to the cause explains everything—"Those Ohio drivers!"

The leather punch has been found. It had been lost for several days and the trail ended with Bill Davidson. He was the last one to see it but he swore he returned it. All boys were questioned, all boxed searched, all buildings examined. It was given up for lost. Last night Bill found it between his covers and the cot. He had been sleeping on it. The fellows in his hut felt so disgraced that they made him climb to the top of the hut and lay on his bedclothes in public humility. Monday night has been set to determine his fate. He will be given a mock trial by the prosecuting attorney, the judge and 12 men, tried and true.

Lauds Plan For Farm Vacations

Farmers And Auto Associations Can Help, McSparren States

HARRISBURG, July 22.—John A. McSparran, secretary of agriculture, today urged Pennsylvania farmers who are willing to take "summer boarders" to co-operate with tourist information organizations. McSparran believes vacationists anxious for the quiet of remote farms as well as farm owners will benefit.

"Our main highways are placarded and many homes are open for tourists," McSparran said. "Probably there are many vacationists, however, who would like to get off the main lines of travel and into more remote country. I suggest, that automobile associations should keep a list when possible, of all such farm homes willing to take boarders at a reasonable price and a description of the natural surroundings.

"As the tourist population normally comes to the Chambers of Commerce and to the local offices of automobile associations, that seems to be the natural place to maintain the lists. Farmers who desire to add to their income should be willing to list their homes with the Chamber of Commerce in the nearest city or with the automobile association office and give information on the type of accommodations they have and the number of people they can entertain. It is very probable that persons out for a vacation would gladly enjoy living in the midst of a real farm operation, and no doubt the farmer could benefit by adding a few dollars to his now meager income."

Giants Up For Sale, Is Talk

STONEHAM REMAINS QUITE SILENT

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 22.— There seems to be some reason to believe today that the New York Giants, only a gaunt caricature of the greatness they once knew, their prestige dissipated, their appeal no more, may be sold within five days to a syndicate headed by John J. McGraw, the dismissed employee and manager.

This statement is a little premature, much of it being sheer surmise, with no one quite able or quite willing to say just where fiction ceases and fact begins. In fact, I was told that if I waited until Saturday noon, I would know all, but I have it very reliably that Friday at 8 a. m. is much sooner and, in addition, my assurance that I'll know more then than now is very little and so is my available information.

Briefly, it professes to vouch for no more than the statement that McGraw has been trying to interest capital in the sale of the club with the idea of declaring himself in and others out, a whimsical notion he has been nursing these several years. However, better men than me have sold this ball club before without confiding in C. A. Stoneham, its owner, and it is also true that when the newspapers don't sell Stoneham out at least once a year he comes morose and embittered and altogether conducts himself in a very dastardly manner.

May Prove Correct

This time, however, the thing has a chance. When they approached him before, he was flying high and living like a mandarin on his receipts at the windows. But these are now negligible, if at all. He is said to have taken no more than $1,500 out of St. Louis on the last series there. On those earlier occasions, too, it was his custom to sub-let the premises after nightfall to boxing and other enterprises that lend themselves to greater understanding and appreciation—after nightfall. But, as far as he is concerned, boxing today has done a dive on its dandruff.

So maybe the perennial rumor is the impending fact, at last. If so, McGraw will assume the presidency and, in spite of what he said the other day, perhaps even the management, in fact if not in name. H'll tear down that ball club that can't win because it won't and try to come up with another at least would win if it could. There is some reason to suspect that men like Lindstrom and Ott and Jackson might be offered for trade elsewhere. There is more than a possibility that an effort would be made to wean Frisch away from St. Louis, since the effort in question was made no longer than five weeks ago when McGraw was named pensioner and Terry, top-hand.

Terry Is Manager

The attempt failed at that time but it might succeed next winter, for while Terry is the manager now, the law says he doesn't have to be then. As a matter of fact, he wouldn't have been a manager at all, if the Frisch business had been transacted, the latter having been the original nominee.

Failing there, McGraw is understood to have picked Terry as his successor, calling the latter into his private office and, having mastered his emotion with visible effort, pleading with this friends and pal to relieve him of his onerous task. I'm sure it was a very affecting scene. In fact, the only possible criticism that occurs to me is that it probably didn't happen.

Golfers Play Second Match

Closer Competition Results As Handicaps Are Established For Player

Better scores resulted in the New Castle Golf League as the second match was played last evening on the Castle Hills course, resulting in the lead changing.

Much of the nervousness which was noticeable in the first match played last week had worn off last evening, and the players settled down to play a little better game.

In the match between the Dentists and the Shenango Tin two of the foursomes got so excited over the game that they forgot to turn in their scores and the results are not recorded in today's standing.

The match between the Blair Strip Steel and Reick-McJunkin sextet was postponed because of the fact that the Blair Strip Steel players had to work overtime last evening and could not get out to the field in time.

The Bankers failed to show up and forfeited their match to the Pennsylvania Power team, which enabled the Power men to climb in the race considerably.

The standing of the teams to date, exclusive of the result from the Dentists-Shenango Tin match last evening, follows:—

	W.	L.

BOSTON SOX DEFEAT YANKS

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, July 22.—They still fear Babe Ruth, despite that injured leg.

The Babe, rushed in as a pinch-hitter, was passed in yesterday's game with the lowly Boston Red Sox who took a 3 to 2 win over the Yankees.

Pirates Win.

Two other prominent convalescents had better luck as Pie Traynor and L. Waner got together in the ninth with two already out and collaborated on a couple of doubles that won for the Pirates over the Phillies, 3 to 2.

Monte Weaver became calm after a bad first inning in which the Tigers scored three runs and hurled Washington to a 5 to 4 triumph over Detroit.

Stewart of the St. Louis Brownies held the Athletics to four clouts and won, 5 to 3. Goslin led the Brown attack with two doubles and two singles in five times up.

Other clubs were idle.

Office-Zelienople Mushball Winners

New Castle Office team defeated the Line Stores 18 to 13 in a Penn-Ohio mushball league game at Cascade Park, and the Zelienople team handed the Line-Store another lacing 14 to 4 in the second end of the double bill. The first game was a slugging match with 30 hits being hung up. Hope, Davies, Shields, Montgomery, Griffiths, Papst, Donovan and Beard did the heaviest swatting.

Hensley on the mound for the Office team had nine strikeouts. Rouch pitched for the Line-Stores.

In the second game the Zelienople team made merry with the Line-Stores, Mott holding the losers to nine hits and fanning three men. Rouch also pitched the second game for the Line Stores and was touched for 15 hits. Issett, White, Eicholtz, Donovan, Griffiths, Walker, Warner, Smith and Lewis pounded the ball hard.

Florida State's Attorney Probes Death Of Youth

Finds Harold Bradley, Young Pennsylvanian Died "Justifiable Homicide" Victim

SAYS PRISONERS ARE SATISFIED

(International News Service)

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. July 22—The shooting of Harold Bradley, youthful Pennsylvanian, in a convict labor camp at Indiantown, Fla. last May, was "justifiable homicide" state's attorney Angus Sumner, of Fort Pierce, Fla., reported today to Commissioner Nathan Mayo, in charge of Florida prisons.

Sumners, one of Florida's leading prosecuting attorneys, made an independent investigation after Pennsylvania authorities complained that Bradley had been shot in the back as he lay on the ground, following an attempt to escape. The Pennsylvania authorities also protested that Bradley had been "mistreated" prior to his death.

Thorough Probe

"I went out to the convict camp at Indiantown and made a thorough investigation as to any mistreatment of convicts and particularly as to any mistreatment of Harold Bradley prior to his death," Sumner reported.

"I questioned many of the convicts but did not find one bit of evidence showing any mistreatment of the convicts on the part of the guards or any one in authority.

"I also talked to a convict by the name of Mobley, who made a dash with Harold Bradley at the time Bradley was shot, and this convict told me it was his inteniton and Harold Bradley's intention to escape.

"Some people have given out statements to the newspaper that there was some mistreatment to Harold Bradley but I have been unable to find that he was mistreated, after a thorough investigation."

"I might state to you that I have been in lots of convict camps but I have never seen a bunch of convicts more satisfied than those in Indiantown.

All Are Satisfied

"They all speak very highly of Mr. Tomasello. I questioned many convicts and no one has any complaint. The grand jury, I might state to you also made an investigation of Harold Bradley's death and rendered their report that this was "justifiable homicide."

The "justifiable homicide" verdict was rendered by a coroner's jury the day after the shooting. This failed to satisfy Bradley's relatives in Pennsylvania, when an undertaker found four bullet wounds in the body—although officials reports said but one shot was fired at him. Later, state officials said that shotgun shell carried six slugs and that four of them had hit Bradley.

They planned then to live at a villa named after one of their most famous songs, "Quand On Est Deux".

Compensation Referee Must Settle Dispute

Must Make Decision As To Whether Man's Death Was Murder Or Suicide

CORONER'S JURY UNABLE TO DECIDE

By GENE MYERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 22—When T. Duncan Just, referee for the State Compensation Board, hands down a ruling early in August in the case of Mrs. Josephine Forti, widow of Samuel Forti, Lansdale foundry worker, he will, in all probability, settle a question which is still a topic of debate here.

If Forti died by his own hand, Mrs. Forti is not allowed compensation.

If he died while in the performance of duty, she can collect.

But the manner in which Forti met death has never been established. A coroner's jury here was unable to decide the exact manner in which Forti died.

On the night of February 18 last, either Forti constructed the crude gallows and placed a noose 'round his neck, or a murderer slipped into the washroom where he was sitting, caught him unaware and murdered him.

Member Of Cult

Conjecture was rife after Forti was found hanging. Investigations unearthed facts that showed Forti was a member of a mysterious cult.

State police contended from the outset that Forti had taken his own life.

Chief of Police Samuel Wolfindin, of Lansdale, declared that Forti was murdered. Wolfindin, to great extent, based his theory on the fact that the noose which was found around Forti's neck, was tied from behind, in a manner which, he said, it would be impossible for Forti to tie himself.

Bruises were found on his face.

State police said these bruises were received when Forti's body swung from the gallows against lockers in the washroom, and not from a beating.

The evidence concerning the bruises was given at the compensation hearing.

After concluding the hearing, Referee Just announced the decision was to be held under advisement. He is expected to hand down a ruling early next month.

Burning Brush On Dam Site Arouses Forest Fire Tales

Heavy Pall Of Smoke Hangs Over Upper Shenango Valley

HARRISBURG, July 22— The dense pall of smoke that has lately hung over the Shenango Valley in Crawford county, for nearly twenty miles between Linesville and Jamestown has caused considerable comment among visitors to this section who believed that uncontrolled forest fires were raging.

The odor of burning timber and rolling clouds of blue smoke were not, however, from forest fires, but came from the timber cutting operations at the Pymatuning reservoir project, where some twenty-four crews of thirty-six men each are clearing the woods growth from 14,500 acres of land, which will be flooded by the great reservoir.

Approximately 8000 acres already have been cleared. R. J. Ferris, an employe of the Water and Power Resources Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, who is engineer in charge of field operations, estimates that the entire reservoir will be cleared of timber by January 1, 1933.

Viewing the progress of this great undertaking is one of the principal attractions for people living in northwestern Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio. Thousands of tourists visit the reservoir site each month and on favorable days hundreds go into the Pymatuning swamp, parts of which are now for the first time within man's knowledge accessible for inspection without danger of becoming lost or trapped by quagmires.

Great openings have been cut into the timber and brush growth which always has formed a discouraging barrier to those wishing to explore the dark depths of the swamp.

Clever Program Is Feature Of Pythian Sisters Meeting Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, July 22.—Over 100 people attended the Pythian Sisters' of Alma Temple Washington Tea Party in the K. of P. hall on Fourth street last evening. The thanks and applause by those present at the close of the program rewarded the various committees for their hard work in making the affair a success.

The hall presented a breath taking scene in its beautiful and clever appointments. A color scheme of the national colors was carried throughout the place in keeping with the occasion. Garden flowers added to the beauty. Each of the 25 tables were cleverly decorated.

A light luncheon served by a committee inaugurated the events of the evening after which a remarkable program was presented.

Eight ladies of the Loyal Orange Lodge attired in colonial costumes presented an interesting minuet. Then Mrs. Neva Koch also in costume rendered a clever reading. This was followed with a reading by DeLight Gordon; a solo by Mrs. Aught Mosely; and piano by Mrs. Marian Conway.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a playlet, "The Wrong Baby" which had a cast of eight Pythian Sisters in costume. The playlet received the hearty applause and appreciation of those present.

Following the program an interesting card party was enjoyed. Mrs. Elizabeth Welsh was the chair lady of the occasion and received much of the credit for the success of the event. She and her committees overlooked no details in arranging the party.

The organization will meet again on August 4 at which time Mrs. Lydia Koch will be in charge of the lunch. It was announced that the Pythian Sisters have been requested to repeat their playlet in the Bell Memorial church soon.

Bambino Struck Out by Jinx

Once again tagged by the jinx, Babe Ruth, New York Yankees' star slugger, is shown being ministered to by Dr. S. Painter, team medico, after he had torn a leg muscle in an effort to make a running catch of a fly ball in the game with the White Sox at New York. Ruth will be out of the line-up for at least three weeks, according to physicians.

National Guards End Training At Mt. Gretna Camp

More Than 4,500 State Guards End Training And Will Leave For Homes Today

GENERAL PRICE COMPLIMENTS BOYS

Citizen-Soldiers Sunburned And Hardened By Two Weeks Of Intensive Practice

(International News Service)

CAMP O'NEIL, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 22.—Sunburned and hardened by two weeks of rigorous army training in the field and happy to receive two week's pay from Uncle Sam, more than 4500 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen packed up today and prepared to return to their home armories.

It was a busy and happy vacation for the citizen-soldiers. Crammed into the two weeks were a review by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, commander-in-chief of the guard, another by Major General William G. Price, Jr., commander of the 28th Division, a two-day road march and maneuvers against a mythical enemy, and numerous military competitions and interesting phases of instruction.

Proud Of Boys

"I am proud of my boys," General Price said at a conference last night. "They did very well during this training period. I am particularly pleased with the soldiery manner with which they conducted themselves during the maneuvers we held on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Weather conditions were against them, but the entire organization functioned very smoothly."

Up till noon today, the soldiers continued their training in the use of small arms. The difficult schedule kept them busy almost until the time of departure.

The regiments completing their summer camp training today were: 56th Infantry Brigade Staff and Headquarters, commander, Brigadier General Robert M. Brookfield of Philadelphia; 111th Infantry Regiment, commander, Col. Charles B. Myers, with companies from Philadelphia, Chester, Doylestown, Media, West Chester, Phoenixville, Norristown and Pottstown; 112th Infantry, commander, Col. C. Blaine Smathers, with companies from Grove City, Erie, Oil City, Corry, Butler, Meadville, Ridgway, Warren, Bradford, Franklin and Kane; 103d Medical Regiment, commander, Col. Edward M. Bland, from Cornopolis, Philadelphia, Mansfield, Kingston, Ligonier, Lebanon, Lancaster, Canonsburg, Wellsboro, and Reading; 103d Cavalry Regiment, commander, Arthur C. Colahan, with troops from Philadephia, Lewisburg, Sunbury, New Castle, Lock Haven, Boalsburg and Bellefonte; 28th Division Trains, under Major George P. Drake, from Harrisburg, York, Gettysburg and Pine Grove.

Units to remain in camp for one more week were: Division special troops, Commander Major James B. Cousart, from Philadelphia, York, Pittsburgh and Norristown; First City Troop, Commander Captain Effingham B. Norris of Philadelphia; Headquarters and Staff of the 52nd Cavalry Brigade under Brigadier General Edward Shannon.

Two regiments of infantry and one regiment of cavalry will arrive Saturday for a similar stay. They will occupy tents vacated by the departing units.

American Ship Captain Slain

Believe Ship Captain Stabbed And Thrown Overboard By Chinese Smugglers

(International News Service)

SHANGHAI, July 22.—Capt. J. Miclo, American pilot of an upper Yangtze river steamer who disappeared from his vessel's bridge last July 13, was stabbed and thrown overboard by four Chinese, according to reports from Hankow today.

The Chinese were believed to be opium smugglers who were taking revenge for the American's refusal to permit them to conceal their drugs aboard his ship.

The buildings comprising refuge keepers' headquarters, of which there are 30 groups in the state, are valued at $169,483.

The value placed on three game propagation farms, aggregating 1,786.4 acres, is $71,400 for the lands and $42,555 for the buildings, a total of $113,955.

Commission members said the hunters of the state provided every dollar used in acquiring this real estate with a total value of $1,643,185.25.

Woman Confesses Telling Untruth To Get Insurance

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., July 22.—Police today announced that Mrs. Rose Miller, 58, confessed to falsely identifying the body of a man found on a beach here as her husband in order to collect insurance of $995.

Mrs. Miller signed the alleged confession after being ... hours, according to police.

Mrs. Miller erred when she gave her husband's age as 33. The dead man is between 45 and 50 years old, authorities said. Trademarks found on the body's clothing lead police to believe the man is from Pittsburgh.

Having been married three times, and the common-law wife of a fourth man, Mrs. Miller also confessed she had been arrested several times for forgery, pilfering a store, bootlegging and minor charges, police said.

Explains Cameras At Scout Camp

Scouts At Camp Phillips Are Entertained By Camera Exhibit

(Special to The News.)

CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 22.—The campfire was again the feature of the day at Camp Phillips with the scouts being entertained by Sid Smith, scoutmaster of New Castle troop 15 and professional photographer. Most of the boys never dared to take a camera apart to find out what takes the pictures, so Mr. Smith did this. The different types of cameras were explained and suggestions for the requirements of the photography merit badge were made. Then the ways of taking pictures at night were demonstrated. Mr. Smith concluded his interesting demonstration by taking pictures and developing them before the audience. If there aren't more photography merit badges awarded at the next court of honor it won't be Sid's fault.

In a previous news report the statement was made that it seemed that West Pittsburg troop 1 has acquired New Castle 17's habit of winning inspection. They have. Poister nut, Newmeyer, Bannon, Buchanan, Snodgrass, Aloe and Koss, won it again Thursday for the fifth time this week. And it isn't because the other huts aren't working. They are, but they aren't working as hard as these fellows.

At the color ceremony Wilfred (Radio) Hazen was presented with his first year emblem. Gillis Falls received his Waysseeker arrow and Pathfinders arrows were won by Dick Wallace and Francis Alexander.

Al Stump, the camp quartermaster, asked for leave of absence to go to Cleveland on a pleasure trip. He left yesterday morning in great spirits in having secured permission but returned last evening with a headache. His exclamation upon being questioned as to the cause explains everything—"Those Ohio drivers!"

The lost-and-found has been found. It had been lost for several days and the trail ended with Bill Davidson. He was the last one to see it but he swore he returned it. All boys were questioned, all boxed searched, all buildings examined. It was given up for lost. Last night Bill found it between his covers and the cot. He had been sleeping on it. The fellows in his hut felt so disgraced that they made him climb to the top of the hut and lay on his bed-clothes in public humility. Monday night has been set to determine his fate. He will be given a mock trial by the prosecuting attorney, the judge and 12 men, tried and true.

Lauds Plan For Farm Vacations

Farmers And Auto Associations Can Help, McSparren States

HARRISBURG, July 22.—John A. McSparren, secretary of agriculture, today urged Pennsylvania farmers who are willing to take "summer boarders" to co-operate with tourist information organizations. McSparran believes vacationists anxious for the quiet of remote farms as well as farm owners will benefit.

"Our main highways are placarded and many homes are open for tourists," McSparran said. "Probably there are many vacationists, however, who would like to get off the main lines of travel and into more remote country. I suggest that automobile associations should keep a list when possible, of all such farm homes willing to take boarders at a reasonable price and a description of the natural surroundings.

"As the tourist population normally comes to the Chambers of Commerce and to the local offices of automobile associations, that seems to be the natural place to maintain the lists. Farmers who desire to add to their income should be willing to list their homes with the Chamber of Commerce in the nearest city or with the automobile association office and give information on the type of accommodations they have and the number of people they can entertain. It is very probable that persons out for a vacation would gladly enjoy living in the midst of a real farm operation, and no doubt the farmer could benefit by adding a few dollars to his now meager income."

Friends Everywhere, Cole's Impression After Covering Part Of Olympic Bike Trip

After all, the world's just a big friendly family—or that's the opinion of New Castle's lone transcontinental cyclist, young Jack Cole, now pedaling his way on his bicycle across some far midwest state in the direction of California Olympics.

Since that dawn of July 12 when he left his home for the athletic classic on the other side of the continent, he's found treatment everywhere superb. Ordinarily he wants to camp outside or board overnight at a country home, but now and then he gets real offers.

Stranger Offers Home.

Writing from Brazil, Ind., several days ago, the "handlebar hiker" told about staying overnight as the guest of a man he met. The stranger was leaving for Terre Haute, Ind., but insisted that Jack occupy his home. And he did.

About his speed, well—he's been averaging 100 miles a day since he left. "I'll bet I could make 40 miles per hour if I had more of my baggage off," he wrote shortly after mailing a load of stuff at Indianapolis for its return home. He said he had hiked far enough to know what he would and would not need.

Mr. and Mrs. DeLace Cole, Euclid avenue, the hiker's parents, keep Jack in touch with New Castle by mailing things ahead. He lists his route and they send things ahead to different postmasters. Lately he called for copies of The News.

After passing St. Louis the cyclist's trail leads to Kansas City, Topeka, Dodge City, LaJunta, Trinidad, Santa Fe, Los Vegas, N. M., and on thru to the coast state.

Cole hopes to see the Olympics, stay in Los Angeles a short while and then head back home on the same bike that carried him there. On top of his riding he pens out a letter a day.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

These are nights when the problem of sleeping is not so much where but how. With the thermometer reaching for the moon and the air moving as fast as a tortoise, you don't have to have a roof over you to sleep. Fact is that's a handicap.

Driven from home at midnight may have been a catastrophic thing one time, but these days it isn't a good sized drive, it's hardly a putt and many a staid citizen is doing his snoring out in the back yard, sharing it with the pooch. The yard the not snore.

One young lady nearly got locked out that way the other evening. Her husband works in the tin mill and gets home shortly after midnight. Lady decides to cool off in the back yard and takes a blanket out to the back lawn. Fell asleep and nearly missed hubb's homecoming.

The fellow with a hedge is in luck. He can park out in his yard without having passers by wondering if he is drunk, or joining a new cult. Anybody who sleeps any place these night, can choose their place for all of me, for after all the sleep's the thing.

And if the lad who owns that horse with one shoe off will come in, perhaps we can start a collection. Every morning early, the equipage goes by our place and that missing shoe produces a weird sound. An irregular tempo, sort of clunk, clunk, clunk, —— clunk. And it seems to me that horse must be horribly embarrassed to go down street with only three shoes on.

And another thing. Now is the time for all good citizens to come to the aid of the weed patches. Along dirt streets especially weeds are head high and just preparing to do a fine job of seeding. Cut them down now and a few million weeds for next summer will never be delivered.

In addition, if you happen to be afflicted with hay fever, it may cut down your sneeze mileage. A few hours work with a scythe and the job is done, and anyway, as we recall it, there is some kind of an ordinance on the books of our fair city regulating the height, size and flavor of weeds that are allowed to grow.

Might be a good idea to form block parties, with everybody in the block turning out with a sickle. Get somebody to donate lemons and serve lemonade. Borrow some sickles or scythes and then wade in.

The motion of a scythe produces the same beneficial effect as a driver or a mashie, at less cost and more lasting results.

Release Work Is About Completed

Only Two Property Holders Are Holding Up Proposed Highway Projects

County commissioners have been making good headway during the past few days in securing releases from farmers along the New Castle-New Wilmington, and Pulaski-New Bedford roads, which it is proposed to improve. It was understood this morning that there is only one person on the New Castle-New Wilmington, and one on the Pulaski-New Bedford road, who have not either signed releases or expressed their willingness to do so.

There are no very serious differences between the commissioners and these persons, and it is believed that they will be smoothd out this week. As soon as this is done the county and state will be ready to go ahead with advertising for bids. It is desirable to have these contracts started as soon as possible, as they will furnish considerable work for the unemployed.

Asks Council To Pay Mills Wages

Council To Discuss Proposed Ordinance Calling For Wage Payment

Judge J. Norman Martin, counsel for C. S. Mills, formerly employed as a fireman by the city of New Castle, appeared before council today, and requested council to adopt an ordinance which would provide payment to Mills for services he rendered from March 9, 1931 until April 19, 1932. The proposed ordinance, written by Judge Martin will be studied when all councilmen are present.

Mills was elected as a city fireman. At the time it was maintained by the City Solicitor Robert White that under civil service regulations the election was irregular. Each time that a voucher for Mills service was presented to council the latter approved the voucher but the city controller upon advice of attorneys refused to honor the warrant.

Injured In Service

Mills secured counsel and following a hearing of mandamus proceedings the court of Lawrence county refused to issue a decree ordering the city controller to pay the money Mills sought.

Mills left the service. At various times city officials have spoken highly of Mills services as a fireman. He was injured in service and has not received any of the money he worked for.

Today Judge Martin told council that there is no question but that Mills worked for the money and that if he had not done so the city would have had to pay the money out to another fireman.

Former Resident Drowning Victim In South Wales

Mrs. Joseph Wilkins, of West North street, has received news of the drowning of her brother, Evan Rees of Danelly, South Wales. Mr. Rees, an unemployed copper worker, was unmarried. He had left home with the intention of going for a walk along the beach. It is presumed that he was trapped by the tide. The tragedy occurred June 29.

The drowning victim was well known in New Castle, having resided here for about sixteen years, during which time he was employed in the tin mill. He left seventeen years ago.

He leaves his sister and two brothers, William of Llanelly, South Wales, and Richard, of California.

City Proposes To Resurface Portion Of Hamilton Street

Storing Of Paper Menace, Chief Reports

Council Takes First Step Toward Eliminating Fire Hazard

Members of council convened at the city building today and instructed City Solicitor Robert White to conduct an investigation and if he finds conditions such as complained of by Fire Chief Stockman he should proceed according to law to eliminate alleged fire menaces here.

Chief Stockman told solons in a letter today that he had investigated conditions at 537 Sampson street, 422 Wood street, 410 Green street, 310 West Lincoln avenue and 28 South Mill street and found that paper is baled in those places then left there until disposed of.

Stockman alleged that at one of the places the fire department has had to answer three fire alarms. He termed the placing of paper in the non-fireproof buildings as a menace. Councilman Davies bore out Stockman's allegation.

Giants Up For Sale, Is Talk

STONEHAM REMAINS QUITE SILENT

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 22.— There seems to be some reason to believe today that the New York Giants, only a gaunt caricature of the greatness they once knew, their prestige dissipated, their appeal no more, may be sold within five days to a syndicate headed by John J. McGraw, the dismissed employee and manager.

This statement is a little premature, much of it being sheer surmise, with no one quite able or quite willing to say just where fiction ceases and fact begins. In fact, I was told that if I waited until Saturday noon, I would know all, but I have it very reliably that Friday at 8 a. m. is much sooner and, in addition, my assurance that I'll know more then than now is very little and so is my available information.

Briefly, it professes to vouch for no more than the statement that McGraw has been trying to interest capital in the sale of the club with the idea of declaring himself in and others out, a whimsical notion he has been nursing these several years. However, better men than me have sold this ball club before without confiding in C. A. Stoneham, its owner, and it is also true that when the newspapers don't tell Stoneham out at least once a year he comes morose and embittered and altogether conducts himself in a very dastardly manner.

May Prove Correct

This time, however, the thing has a chance. When they approached him before, he was flying high and living like a mandarin on his receipts at the windows. But these are now negligible, if at all. He is said to have taken no more than $1,500 out of St. Louis on the last series there. On those earlier occasions, too, it was his custom to sub-let the premises after nightfall to boxing and other enterprises that lend themselves to greater understanding and appreciation—after nightfall. But, as far as he is concerned, boxing today has done a dive on its dandruff.

So maybe the perennial rumor is the impending fact, at last. If so, McGraw will assume the presidency and, in spite of what he said the other day, perhaps even the management, in fact if not in name. He'll tear down that ball club that can't win because it won't and try to come up with another at least would win if it could. There is some reason to suspect that men like Lindstrom and Ott and Jackson might be offered for trade elsewhere. There is more than a possibility that an effort would be made to wean Frisch away from St. Louis, since the effort in question was made no longer than five weeks ago when McGraw was named pensioner and Terry, top-hand.

Terry Is Manager

The attempt failed at that time but it might succeed next winter, for while Terry is the manager now, the law says he doesn't have to be then. As a matter of fact, he wouldn't have been a manager at all, if the Frisch business had been transacted, the latter having been the original nominee.

Falling there, McGraw is understood to have picked Terry as his successor, calling the latter into his private office and, having mastered his emotion with visible effort, pleading with this friends and pal to relieve him of his onerous task. I'm sure it was a very affecting scene. In fact, the only possible criticism that occurs to me is that it probably didn't happen.

Golfers Play Second Match

Closer Competition Results As Handicaps Are Established For Player

Better scores resulted in the New Castle Golf League as the second match was played last evening on the Castle Hills course, resulting in the lead changing.

Much of the nervousness which was noticeable in the first match played last week had worn off last evening, and the players settled down to play a little better game.

In the match between the Dentists and the Shenango Tin two of the foursomes got so excited over the game that they forgot to turn in their scores and the results are not recorded in today's standing.

The match between the Blair Strip Steel and Reick-McJunkin sextet was postponed because of the fact that the Blair Strip Steel players had to work overtime last evening and could not get out to the field in time.

The Bankers failed to show up and forfeited their match to the Pennsylvania Power team, which enabled the Power men to climb in the race considerably.

The standing of the teams to date, exclusive of the result from the Dentists-Shenango Tin match last evening, follows:—

Pirates Upset Phillies 3 To 2

Lloyd Waner's Hit in Ninth Saves Game For Pirates In National League

BOSTON SOX DEFEAT YANKS

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, July 22.—They still fear Babe Ruth, despite that injured leg.

The Babe, rushed in as a pinch-hitter, was passed in yesterday's game with the lowly Boston Red Sox who took a 3 to 2 win over the Yankees.

Pirates Win.

Two other prominent convalescents had better luck as Pie Traynor and L. Waner got together in the ninth with two already out and collaborated on a couple of doubles that won for the Pirates over the Phillies, 3 to 2.

Monte Weaver became calm after a bad first inning in which the Tigers scored three runs and hurled Washington to a 5 to 4 triumph over Detroit.

Stewart of the St. Louis Brownies held the Athletics to four clouts and won, 5 to 3. Goslin led the Brown attack with two doubles and two singles in five times up.

Other clubs were idle.

Office-Zelienople Mushball Winners

New Castle Office team defeated the Line Stores 18 to 13 in a Penn-Ohio mushball league game at Cascade Park, and the Zelienople team handed the Line-Store another lacing 14 to 4 in the second end of the double bill. The first game was a slugging match with 30 hits being hung up. Hope, Davies, Shields, Montgomery, Griffiths, Papst, Donovan and Beard did the heaviest swatting.

Hensley on the mound for the Office team had nine strikeouts. Rouch pitched for the Line-Stores.

In the second game the Zelienople team made merry with the Line-Stores. Mott holding the losers to nine hits and fanning three men. Rouch also pitched the second game for the Line Stores and was touched for 15 hits. Isett, White, Eicholtz, Donovan, Griffiths, Walker, Warner, Smith and Lewis pounded the ball hard.

Smolnick To Hurl Against Cleveland

Cleveland Polish National Alliance will play the local P. N. A. team on Glasser field at three o'clock D. S. T. Saturday. Cleveland beat New Castle at Cleveland. Emil Smolnick will pitch for New Castle. He has defeated the Scarazzo team of the Lawrence County loop twice this season.

TRADING VOLUME SHOWS INCREASE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 22—A buoyant rail market brought another rise in the stock market today.

Oils and rails were all over the tape with the rest of the list temporarily neglected. The merger rails, with the exception of Pennsylvania were the pacemakers, led by Baltimore and Ohio. New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio scored good gains.

Atlantic Refining was the feature of the petroleum list, rising more than a point to a new high for the year. The rest of the oils went into new high ground for the move, with Standard of New Jersey and Standard of California prominent in the advance Low priced issues improved.

U. S. Steel common opened strong, but failed to do much. The preferred was higher. Other leaders like American Can, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone and Allied Chemical were sluggish.

Volume of trading showed a notable increase over recent sessions.

Over 100 Attend Washington Tea Party Thursday

Clever Program Is Feature Of Pythian Sisters Meeting Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, July 22.—Over 100 people attended the Pythian Sisters' of Alma Temple Washington Tea Party in the K. of P. hall on Fourth street last evening. The thanks and applause by those present at the close of the program rewarded the various committees for their hard work in making the affair a success.

The hall presented a breath taking scene in its beautiful and clever appointments. A color scheme of the national colors was carried throughout the place in keeping with the occasion. Garden flowers added to the beauty. Each of the 25 tables were cleverly decorated.

A light luncheon served by a committee inaugurated the events of the evening after which a remarkable program was presented.

Eight ladies of the Loyal Orange Lodge attired in colonial costumes presented an interesting minuet. Then Mrs. Neva Koch also in costume rendered a clever reading. This was followed with a reading by DeLight Gordon; a solo by Mrs. Aught Mosely; and piano by Mrs. Marian Conway.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a playlet, "The Wrong Baby" which had a cast of eight Pythian Sisters in costume. The playlet received the hearty applause and appreciation of those present.

Following the program an interesting card party was enjoyed. Mrs. Elizabeth Welsh was the chair lady of the occasion and received much of the credit for the success of the event. She and her committees overlooked no details in arranging the party.

The organization will meet again on August 4 at which time Mrs. Lydia Koch will be in charge of the lunch. It was announced that the Pythian Sisters have been requested to repeat their playlet in the Bell Memorial church soon.

At 7 o'clock a bountiful picnic supper was served from well-filled baskets by Mrs. Clem Hays, Mrs. Lee Burke, Mrs. Walter Blinn, Mrs. John Staph, Miss Emma Eckhart and Misses Lulu and Bessie Collins. Two long tables placed on the church lawn were prettily centered with choice bouquets of summer flowers.

About the time the sports committee got busy with their program the sudden downpour of rain accompanied by an electric and thunder storm changed the plans of the group and there was a hurried scramble for the cars which had been parked on the lawn.

Baptist Society Has Fine Program

ELLWOOD CITY, July 22.—A fine program was the feature of the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary society of the First Baptist church in their rooms Thursday afternoon. Members of the Providence Society were special guests at the time. A total of 65 from both societies were present.

The program was in charge of group No. 2 captained by Mrs. H. M. Anderson. Those participating in it showed real ingenuity when they mimicked a regular radio program, with the announcers, speakers, singers, and all. This was very clever and well received by the fine turnout. There was some special music by Mrs. Bernie Osterhouse and Mrs. John Hough.

At the close of the program an interesting address was given by Mrs. Carothers, president of the Beaver County Mission association. Also Mrs. J. R. Routledge and Mrs. Osterhouse rendered a few words.

The program was preceded by a delicious tureen dinner and later a social period was enjoyed. The business meeting was brief this time with only routine matters coming up.

Rotary Hears Good Talk By Minister

ELLWOOD CITY, July 22—An instructive talk dealing with the present conditions featured the weekly meeting of the Ellwood City Rotary Club in the First Presbyterian church last night. A notable turnout of members were present on this occasion.

The address of the evening was delivered by the Rev. C. F. Christiansen, pastor of the local Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Christiansen's talk was based around the value of things. His general point was that the commodities of today have the same value that they did in 1927-28. The material, the land, and the machinery all have the same value today, but are suffering because of the depreciation of the buying power of the dollar.

Friends Everywhere, Cole's Impression After Covering Part Of Olympic Bike Trip

After all, the world's just a big friendly family—or that's the opinion of New Castle's lone transcontinental cyclist, young Jack Cole, now pedaling his way on his bicycle across some far midwest state in the direction of California Olympics.

Since that dawn of July 12 when he left his home for the athletic classic on the other side of the continent, he's found treatment everywhere superb. Ordinarily he wants to camp outside or board overnight at a country home, but now and then he gets real offers.

Stranger Offers Home.

Writing from Brazil, Ind., several days ago, the "handlebar hiker" told about staying overnight as the guest of a man he met. The stranger was leaving for Terre Haute, Ind., but insisted that Jack occupy his home. And he did.

About his speed, well—he's been averaging 100 miles a day since he left. "I'll bet I could make 40 miles per hour if I had more of my baggage off," he wrote shortly after mailing a load of stuff at Indianapolis for its return home. He said he had hiked far enough to know what he would and would not need.

Mr. and Mrs. DeLace Cole, Euclid avenue, the hiker's parents, keep Jack in touch with New Castle by mailing things ahead. He lists his route and they send things ahead to different postmasters. Lately he called for copies of The News.

After passing St. Louis the cyclist's trail leads to Kansas City, Topeka, Dodge City, LaJunta, Trinidad, Santa Fe, Los Vegas, N. M., and on thru to the coast state.

Cole hopes to see the Olympics, stay in Los Angeles a short while and then head back home on the same bike that carried him there. On top of his riding he pens out a letter a day.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

These are nights when the problem of sleeping is not so much where but how. With the thermometer reaching for the moon and the air moving as fast as a tortoise, you don't have to have a roof over you to sleep. Fact is that's a handicap.

Driven from home at midnight may have been a catastrophic thing one time, but these days it isn't a good sized drive, it's hardly a putt and many a staid citizen is doing his snoring out in the back yard, sharing it with the pooch. The yard the not snore.

One young lady nearly got locked out that way the other evening. Her husband works in the tin mill and gets home shortly after midnight. Lady decides to cool off in the back yard and takes a blanket out to the back lawn. Fell asleep and nearly missed hubb's homecoming.

The fellow with a hedge is in luck. He can park out in his yard without having passers by wondering if he is drunk, or joining a new cult. Anybody who sleeps any place these night, can choose their place for all of me, for after all the sleep's the thing.

And if the lad who owns that horse with one shoe off will come in, perhaps we can start a collection. Every morning early, the equipage goes by our place and that missing shoe produces a weird sound. An irregular tempo, sort of clunk, clunk, clunk, ——— clunk. And it seems to me that horse must be horribly embarrassed to go down street with only three shoes on.

And another thing. Now is the time for all good citizens to come to the aid of the weed patches. Along dirt streets especially weeds are head high and just preparing to do a fine job of seeding. Cut them down now and a few million weeds for next summer will never be delivered.

In addition, if you happen to be afflicted with hay fever, it may cut down your sneeze mileage. A few hours work with a scythe and the job is done, and anyway, as we recall it, there is some kind of an ordinance on the books of our fair city regulating the height, size and flavor of weeds that are allowed to grow.

Might be a good idea to form block parties, with everybody in the block turning out with a sickle. Get somebody to donate lemons and serve lemonade. Borrow some sickles or scythes and then wade in.

The motion of a scythe produces the same beneficial effect as a driver or a mashie, at less cost and more lasting results.

Release Work Is About Completed

Only Two Property Holders Are Holding Up Proposed Highway Projects

County commissioners have been making good headway during the past few days in securing releases from farmers along the New Castle-New Wilmington, and Pulaski-New Bedford roads, which it is proposed to improve. It was understood this morning that there is only one person on the New Castle-New Wilmington, and one on the Pulaski-New Bedford road, who have not either signed releases or expressed their willingness to do so.

There are no very serious differences between the commissioners and these persons, and it is believed that they will be smoothed out this week. As soon as this is done the county and state will be ready to go ahead with advertising for bids. It is desirable to have these contracts started as soon as possible, as they will furnish considerable work for the unemployed.

Asks Council To Pay Mills Wages

Council To Discuss Proposed Ordinance Calling For Wage Payment

Judge J. Norman Martin, counsel for C. S. Mills, formerly employed as a fireman by the city of New Castle, appeared before council today, and requested council to adopt an ordinance which would provide payment to Mills for services he rendered from March 9, 1931 until April 19, 1932. The proposed ordinance, written by Judge Martin will be studied when all councilmen are present.

Mills was elected as a city fireman. At the time it was maintained by the City Solicitor Robert White that under civil service regulations the election was irregular.

Each time that a voucher for Mills service was presented to council the latter approved the voucher but the city controller upon advice of attorneys refused to honor the warrant.

Injured In Service

Mills secured counsel and following a hearing of mandamus proceedings the court of Lawrence county refused to issue a decree ordering the city controller to pay the money Mills sought.

Mills left the service. At various times city officials have spoken highly of Mills services as a fireman. He was injured in service and has not received any of the money he worked for.

Today Judge Martin told council that there is no question but that Mills worked for the money and that if he had not done so the city would have had to pay the money out to another fireman.

Former Resident Drowning Victim In South Wales

Mrs. Joseph Wilkins, of West North street, has received news of the drowning of her brother, Evan Rees of Danelly, South Wales. Mr. Rees, an unemployed copper worker, was unmarried. He had left home with the intention of going for a walk along the beach. It is presumed that he was trapped by the tide. The tragedy occurred June 29.

The drowning victim was well known in New Castle, having resided here for about sixteen years, during which time he was employed in the tin mill. He left seventeen years ago.

He leaves his sister and two brothers, William of Llanelly, South Wales, and Richard, of California.

Council Takes First Step Toward Eliminating Fire Hazard

Members of council convened at the city building today and instructed City Solicitor Robert White to conduct an investigation and if he finds conditions such as complained of by Fire Chief Stockman he should proceed according to law to eliminate alleged fire menaces here.

Chief Stockman told solons in a letter today that he had investigated conditions at 537 Sampson street, 422 Wood street, 410 Green street, 810 West Lincoln avenue and 28 South Mill street and found that paper is baled in those places then left there until disposed of.

Stockman alleged that at one of the places the fire department has had to answer three fire alarms. He termed the placing of paper in the non-fireproof buildings as a menace. Councilman Davies bore out Stockman's allegation.
